A good tea may be made a bad tea, but a bad tea cannot be made a good tea, says the Lancot, except perhaps by very skilful blending. Excessive infusion will spoil a good tea, but even a short infusion of a bad tea may be as objectionable as an excessive infusion of a good tea. On physiological grounds, therefore, the consumer of high quality teas runs less risk of digestive disturbance, provided the tea is made properly.

New York's Seal.

The figures on the seal of the city of New York refer to the trades in which the early settlers engaged. The beavers were used as early as 1645, for the trade in beaver skins was an important industry from the colony's beginning. In 1686 the flour trade had become important also, so the windmills and barrels were added to typify that occupation.
