REED QUILTS AS MAYOR

Resigns in Favor of J. S. McCurdy who Accepts

TWO NEW ALDERMEN ELECTED

R. W. Cary Succeeds Jones, and A. E. Sparks Takes Underwood's Place—Retiring Mayor Files Report

With a suddenness that surprised, J. W. Reed, at council meeting Tuesday evening, resigned as mayor of Estacada in favor of J. S. McCurdy. His resignation was accepted and Mr. McCurdy elected in his stead. The latter was sworn in yesterday.

Previous to this culmination of an interesting meeting, R. W. Cary was elected alderman of the Second ward to succeed W. A. Jones, resigned and A. E. Sparks, chosen for the third ward, succeeding William Underwood who has been absent from meetings three months. R. M. March was elected City Marshal in place of A. G. Ames absent.

Another feature of the session was Mrs. E. M. Miller's first appearance as a "city ma'am." She was much interested in the proceedings and participated in discussion of several matters before the council.

Served Over 5 Years
Mr. Reed discussing his resignation after meeting said he had served the city 5 years and a half and believed some one else should take over the responsibility.

"I have enjoyed the work 'the added,' but it is more or less of a sacrifice to devote so much time to the position. In Mr. McCurdy I'm sure the city will have an excellent mayor; He's a good business man and will have the best interests of the city at heart."

Mayor McCurdy was notified of his unanimous election as mayor and was sworn in on his return to town yesterday. He said he was rather averse to accepting but had decided to do so and would give the city his best effort, as soon as he became familiarized with the situation. Both he and the recently elected aldermen serve until city election next June.

A Business Session
The new council lost no time in getting down to business. First they accepted the easement of the P. R. L. & P. for the new road to the Springwater bridge, then authorized the city recorder to prepare a call for bids for the new sewer district to be opened in 20 days.

After discussing the county court's plan to turn over free to the city gravel from the new pit down the line, the only cost, being the freight and loading, the mayor then was authorized to confer with the court.

The question of securing a right of way across the Stubbe tract for extension of the water main to the Warner tract where a reservoir is proposed, was left to the mayor and city recorder. The city offered Mrs. Stubbe $100 for perpetual rights across the tract.

A warrant was ordered drawn to pay interest on bonds, but a number of other bills went over a week.

Reed's Recommendations
The outgoing mayor submitted a report of the city finances as follows: On hand road fund, 5 cents; on hand general fund $17.18; in water fund $418.73; outstanding warrants road fund $294.35; out standing warrants general fund $1131.62. It was stated about $200 is ready for the water fund and about $500 on deposit for the road fund, not yet turned over by the county. The mayor stated the indebtedness was due to the lack of money in special fund to complete the sewer.

Other suggestions were: Improvement of waterworks by extending across the Stubbe tract; beautifying the city; appointment of street and waterworks supervisor to repair crossings, look after street work, repair waterworks and keep reservoir cleaned; establishment of a fire limit and permitting no more rane buildings within the district; opening road to dumping ground; publication in full of council proceedings in local paper so public is kept advised; after wagon road is built to bridge, balance of fund to be used as operating fund while paving principal streets, paving to be paid by abutting property owners. After discussing some needed repairs at the waterworks and on the streets, the council elected J. W. Reed as street superintendent and water commissioner.

Pioneer Passes Away

A. M. Lovelace, aged 75, a well known pioneer of Clackamas county died suddenly at his home in Portland, last Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Notice was sent to his son John F. Lovelace of Estacada, who left Tuesday for the city. Apoplexy was the cause of death, the deceased having suffered a stroke about 3 years ago.

Mr. Lovelace came from Missouri to Oregon with his wife and one son John, in 1865, having crossed the plains the year previously, settling first in Idaho. He took up a homestead at Damascus and resided there 20 years when he went to Washington for a short time, returning to Damascus, where he engaged in the mercantile business with his son John. A number of years ago he sold out and moved to Portland, engaging in the real estate business. He leaves a widow and the following children: John F., Estacada, Robert and Lillian of Nevada; Mrs. Ada English of Banks and Mrs. Anna Bateman of Portland. Only a few weeks ago, deceased visited his son here. He was in his usual health at that time.

MEETING IS SUCCESS

Estacada Fruit Growers prove Themselves Live Wires

GOOD CROWD AT THE THEATRE

They Hear Interesting Talks of Fruit Experts, Goodrich, Williamson and Freytag, Last Saturday

With the bustling Estacada Fruit Growers association in charge of the affair, the meeting at Boner's theatre last Saturday, proved a great success, the place being crowded by interested ranchmen from every precinct in the Estacada country. It was a measly day to be out, too, the leaden sky weeping steadily and solemnly. The fruit growers, however, were on hand in force, and they were well repaid for their coming, although only three of the half dozen or more speakers made their appearance.

President Newell of the Oregon Horticultural society was detained by serious illness of his daughter and T. W. Sullivan and Prof. Williamson of the O. A. C. dropped out somewhere, nobody showing up at the Eagle Creek meeting.

Gave Interesting Talk
Secretary Williamson of the O. H. S. was the first speaker introduced by President A. O. Whitcomb of the Fruit Growers. He gave an interesting history of Clackamas county showing it was a pioneer in fruit growing, at one time leading the state. Overproduction and lack of care of orchards caused it to drop badly in the list, but it is now coming back. Commissioner Goodrich told how to plant and raise prunes and discussed orchard pests in general. Publicity Agent Freytag told of orchard pests and how to get rid of them; how to raise Loganberries and advised all fruit growers to insist on owners of old orchards cleaning them up so new orchards would not be contaminated. all the speakers were applauded.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the visitors, proposed by Secretary A. W. Botkin, who did yeoman service in advertising and promoting the meeting.

Clackamas Legislators

Get Good Appointments

In the selection of committees at Salem, Clackamas county legislators in the house, have some good assignments. Representative Gill is chairman of the fisheries committee and a member of the claims committee and the roads and highways; Schnorer is on the agricultural committee as well as the health and public morals, and public lands, Schuebel is on revision of laws.

Schuebel has already introduced his bill taxing unused water power and will push this as his most important measure during the session. There promises to be a hot fight over this.

Two Basketball Games

A team made up of Estacada players, including Milt Evans, Hurley Fellows; Malcomb Woodle and Guy Graham, went to Eagle Creek, Saturday evening and were defeated by Eagle Creek's new team 19 to 18 at Wilber's hall. The fourth Estacada player, Kandle failed to show up and the team borrowed an Eagle Creek man. The crowd enjoyed the play. Bob Morton refereed.

At Springwater the same evening the locals beat Colton 33 to 16. There was frequent fouling, the players roughing it at times. S. Kilgore was referee and Hult umpired. The lineup was: Springwater, E. Horner, and H. Horner, forwards; Kilgore, center and F. Horner and Wilcox, guards. For Colton, Shingren and Hunt, forwards, Anderson, center; Branden and Peterson, guards.

Against Bigger Navy

At the meeting of the Adelphe Literary society, one of the two societies organized by high school students, the negative side of the debate won in the question "Resolved that the U. S. should have a larger navy." Ralph Miller and Eleanor Beus supported the affirmative and Kenneth Bartlett and Gladys Carpenter the negative. In addition to the debate the society's program included a song by Mrs. Devore; current events, McColley Dale; biographical sketch of a prominent citizen, Leo Havens; piano solo, Erma Graham; select reading, Delia Reining; parliamentary practice with Prof. F. B. Guthrie in the chair.

In two weeks the Websterian society will present a program. The debate is on the question "Resolved that the government should own and operate the railroads."
