Removing Mildew Stains.
Soaking mildew stains in buttermilk or sour milk many times remove them, but not always. Try a solution of one heaping teaspoonful of chloride of lime to a quart of soft water; strain when well dissolved and dip the mildewed spots in it until the stains disappear, then rinse immediately and thoroughly in clear water.

Is a Wonder in the Blood
A Remedy That Has Shown a Most Remarkable Purifying Effect.

The word medicine is one of the most abused in our language. It contains medicinal properties just as necessary to health as the food we eat. Take, for example, the well-known tonic medicine S. S. S. This famous blood purifier contains medicinal components just as vital and essential to healthy blood as the elements of wheat, yeast, beef, and the sugars that make up our daily ration.

ALL SORTS OF GOOD THINGS
Seasonable Recipes That Are Worth the Attention of Any Earnest Housewife.

Mint Sauce—To be served with spring lamb. Three tablespoonfuls vinegar; two tablespoonfuls mint; one tablespoonful sugar; one tablespoonful salt. Mix ten minutes before using.

Marshmallow Pudding—The whites of three eggs, beaten stiff, one-half cup cold water, one-half cupful of whipped cream. Serve at once.

Potato Salad—Cut into small dice six large boiled potatoes, add two stalks celery cut into small pieces, one cucumber and one-fourth onion, minced; three hard boiled eggs, sliced; salt and pepper and juice of one lemon. Pour mayonnaise over this and mix thoroughly.

Crema puffs and eclairs filled with the fresh strawberries crushed and sweetened, instead of the usual cream filling, are among the delights of the season.

Drying Rubber Boots.
In wet weather my children frequently waded into water over their rubber boots, and having to spend considerable time in drying these wet boots, I looked around one day for something with which to do the work quickly and effectively.

Mint Jelly.
Mint jelly is not at all difficult of making. Boil one cup of vinegar with one cup of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of sugar until the sugar is dissolved. Add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of gelatin which has been soaked in cold water enough to cover for half an hour.

Baked Mince Roll.
Use any scraps of cold meat, tongue, ham, etc. Pass through a mincing machine and add to it a third of fine bread crumbs. Season with good gravy, chopped parsley, pepper and salt.

Ink Stains Removed.
I find that ink stains on garments can be soaked out with a mixture of salt and milk. Use a teaspoonful of salt to nearly a half glass of milk. This solution can be used for either white or colored fabrics; but if the ink has been allowed to dry it will be necessary to soak the stained part in the milk for an hour or two.

AMERICAN IS SHOT

Mexican Federal Soldiers Try to Kill Captured Inspector.

Shot in Back, in Accordance With Notorious Mexican "Fugitive Law" for Prisoners.

El Paso, Tex.,—Charles B. Dixon, of San Diego, United States Immigration inspector, was shot in the back by Mexican federal soldiers at Jarez Sunday. The soldiers are said to have invoked the notorious "ley fuga," or fugitive law. Dixon was seriously wounded and is likely to die.

Dixon was arrested by a band of federal soldiers, who started to march him away from the city in the direction of the foothills, where many executions have taken place. Dixon started to run, and after getting a block away, was fired on.

Dixon made a statement in Jarez to American officials that he was satisfied the Mexicans were marching him out to shoot him when he ran. He said the Mexican soldiers were drunk.

Dixon was sent by a superior to Jarez to see a witness in connection with a white slave case that was being investigated here. He says he believes the witness, after he had talked to him in Jarez, bought drinks for the soldiers and induced them to arrest him.

"I told the soldiers I would go with them to the commandant's office," Dixon said, "but, instead of taking me in that direction, they started with me in the direction of the outskirts of the town. As I had on a suit of khaki, I thought that perhaps they had taken me for a United States soldier acting as a spy, so I ran and they shot me after I had got about half a block away from them."

Dr. J. H. Tappan, of the immigration service in El Paso, went to Jarez and treated the wounded man. He found that Dixon was shot in the back, the ball going completely through his body and coming out through his stomach. It did not strike the spine.

Washington, D. C.—"It looks like a serious case. We will do whatever is necessary," Secretary Bryan said in commenting on the shooting of Immigration Inspector Dixon at Jarez. He telegraphed American Consul Edwards for an immediate investigation.

PLACE BURDEN ON WEALTH

Idaho Senator Pleads for Higher Exemption Limit.

Washington, D. C.—Public discussion of the proposed new income tax came for the first time in the senate Thursday when Senator Borah began an analysis of the income tax provision of the tariff bill and a comparison of conditions in this country with those in England, France and other nations, where immense revenues are obtained by direct taxation.

This was the first break in the program of tariff rate discussion, which began Saturday.

It followed the conclusion of an address by Senator Smoot, who for two days had analyzed the new rates and had criticized the measure because of its departure from the protective policy and because of its alleged ineffectiveness.

Senator Borah's address, to be continued later, held the close attention of Republicans and Democrats alike throughout the time he had the floor. He declared an income tax, to be an effective restraint on the extravagance of a nation, should be distributive over the small incomes so every citizen would feel its effects.

Under the income tax provision there will be no relief for those who ought to have relief, said the senator. "It will be a new source of revenue, but the old sources, the indirect tariff and internal revenue taxes, still will be worked to the limit. Until there is a reduction in the revenue from these other sources this simply will be an additional burden. It will be simply another means of securing revenue to gratify our scandalous desire to spend money."

Washington, D. C.—Business Men Want Merchandise Distributed.

Washington, D. C.—Sale of the un-called-for and unsold merchandise of the Postoffice department during the year at stipulated points throughout the country, instead of in the capital, as has been the case in previous years, has been asked by the merchants of Washington.

In a petition to Postmaster General Burleson and Retail Merchants' association, they ask that the government, through its sale of "dead letter" matter, enter into competition with them and injures their business. The association believes this competition should be more widely distributed.

MEDIATION IS 'ROT'

So Declares Ambassador Wilson on Mexican Situation.

Tripartite Conference Would Be Abandonment of Monroe Doctrine—Supports Huerta.

New York—Pausing here for a half day on his hurried Mexico-to-Washington trip in response to a summons from President Wilson, Henry Lane Wilson, American ambassador to Mexico, announced his emphatic opposition to several plans under consideration by the State department for bringing about peace in the troubled Mexican republic.

Mr. Wilson characterized the mediation plan as "rot," and said the proposal for a tripartite commission was not feasible.

"If we are to consider such a plan, we may as well abandon the Monroe doctrine entirely," he said. "The Monroe doctrine pledges the United States to take care of the interests of American governments without the aid of any foreign country. Consequently, under the Monroe doctrine we cannot attempt to settle Mexico's affairs through the services of such a body as the proposed tripartite commission, since it involves calling in outside interests to help."

The ambassador's silence regarding his opinion to American recognition has broken long enough for him to comment on one of his acts just subsequent to the overthrow of Madero. Mr. Wilson recalled that this act was interpreted in many quarters as virtual recognition, notwithstanding the refusal of his government at Washington to admit the republic on a diplomatic footing common with other governments.

In February, when Huerta became provisional president, the ambassador instructed American consuls in Mexico, "in the interests of Mexico, to urge general submission and adhesion to the government, which will be recognized by all foreign governments today."

Mr. Wilson said a wrong construction would be placed on this advice to consular officers by any person who believed it meant that he recognized the Huerta government or that he had desired to conflict in any way with the policies of either Mr. Taft as President, or President Wilson.

It was the de facto government only that I recognized," Mr. Wilson explained. "The de facto government was the only government that possessed the power to offer protection for American lives and property and for the lives and property of other foreigners. I acted as any ambassador has the right to act—in the interests of my countrymen. The government was the only existing one of law and order. I believe that I did right at the critical time."

Not Hardly.
Doctor (to anxious husband and father)—"All the baby wants is some good milk, and take care that it all comes from the same cow. As for the mother, there's nothing really the matter with her, only a little weakness, that's all. And she'll soon pick up if she has every day some underdone beefsteak." Anxious husband—"From the same cow, doctor?"
