The city of Gresham has passed an ordinance prohibiting dancing on Sunday.

The credit for putting Salem, Oregon City and Gresham, as well as other places, in the dry column, is given to the votes of the women.

Nearly every legitimate endeavor is advertised today, says an exchange. Banks advertise, so do railroads and public service corporations. There should be a representative of every line of business activity in a town, in the home paper. Readers of the Progress really want some information about your business. Why don't you tell them?

T. J. Gary resigned as County School Superintendent of Clackamas county to accept the position of instructor of English in the Portland trade schools, at $1350 a year, following the refusal of the citizens of the county to raise his salary from $1000 to $1600. The resignation takes effect next Monday. The County Court will appoint Mr. Gary's successor. Those in line for the appointment are H. M. James of Estacada, now one of the County Supervisors, Brenton Vedder, also a supervisor, Carl F. Anderson of Oregon City, J. E. Calavan, of Wichita school, and Howard Eccles of Canby.

Later—J. E. Calavan, teacher in the Wichita schools, was appointed Tuesday.

President Walker, of the Estacada State Bank, was an Estacada visitor from Canby last Saturday, and while here favored this office with a pleasant call. Mr. Walker is quite enthused in regard to the business outlook for Estacada and proposes to lend his assistance and influence towards building up the town and surrounding country. He is an ardent believer that there is money for the farmers in the hog raising industry, and in a short time he will send a representative from the Union Meat Company, to canvass the territory and see what inducements can be offered to the farmers to raise more hogs. This is carrying out what the Progress has been advocating for some time.

Past experience in the canning business at Estacada, does not prove very satisfactory, so far as the writer can learn, but could the fruit growers in this section adopt the system which they have at Puyallup, Wash., we can see no reason why it would not be a splendid proposition. The system upon which the Puyallup Fruit Growers have built up a $75,000 annual business, is quite simple if reports are true, and is briefly as follows: The growers who belong to the association turn in all their fruit at the receiving warehouse platform, receiving a ticket in place of cash. The fruit is then pooled and sent to the market that is most in need of it. The association employs six salesmen, who operate it in as many different states. For instance, when the association ships fruit to Chicago, the agent is there to gauge the price the fruit should command. As money returns from certain pools, checks are mailed to the growers as partial payment, but final payment is not made until the entire pool is closed out. For handling the business the association charges a commission of 6 cents a crate for berries that go to market and 4 cents a crate for handling the berries through the cannery, expenses being charged against each pool. The Puyallup association is a stock company having 1400 members, each member paying $1 a share and no member can have more than 15 shares. They now own a plant worth $47,000. Considerable more could be said on this subject, but lack of space forbids.

The street lights were still on at 9:30 Monday morning. Somebody forgot to turn them off. If there was any extra expense attached to having them turned on, what a chance there would be for a great big "kick."

GARFIELD

Slippery boards proved too much for Walter Shriner last Monday morning. Walt had barely started work, being near the top of a barn he is constructing for Sam Dunlop when by a misstep he fell to the ground, sustaining a badly sprained ankle and other body bruises. With the professional care of Dr. Adix his recovery is looked for soon.

The heavy frost that prevailed here Monday and Tuesday nights exterminated the remaining fern of the season 1913.

The apple growers realized small projects this year, from the younger bearing orchards. Next season will very likely see them packed for the trade.

Potato prices have made a noticeable advance. Probably the Portland buyers have concluded that the farmers know something about the country's yield.

Ninety-three to nothing is about the largest score ever piled up in a Clackamas county football game and that record is held by Estacada when they walloped Gresham Saturday. The game was merely a landslide—there was no time during the contest that there was the slightest doubt as to the final outcome.—Oregon City Enterprise.

The Best Light At The Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing lights. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place, thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess those qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.
