The Progress wishes all its readers a Merry Christmas and hopes that your stockings will be filled to overflowing.

Some parts of Oregon has had snow lately, but Estacada has not been so favored. The saying that a green Christmas makes a fat graveyard, does not apply to Oregon.

President Wilson signed the Currency bill at 6:01 o'clock Tuesday night. Now as this seemed to be what the American people were waiting for, it is hoped that everybody will settle down to business.

"While the Christmas bells are ringing out their message so clear, go ye out among your fellows, spread the gospel of good cheer.
From some heart bowed down in sorrow lift the bitter load of woe; in some home with gloom o'er-shadowed spread the cheerful Christmas glow." To some child, some weeping widow, working out a wretched lot, take a share of Christmas blessing—show that God has not forgot.
Just divide your Christmas blessings, give unfortunates a part, and you'll double joys of Christmas—Keeping Christmas in your heart."

EAGLE CREEK

Miss Anna Greenwell has gone home to spend the holidays.
Murray Clark was a Portland visitor one day last week.

H. S. Gibson, Mrs. R. B. Gibson, Miss Echo Githens and Carl Clark attended the Aue-Chapman man-Horner concert at Estacada last Wednesday evening.

Alex Baker made a trip to Portland last Thursday.

Mrs. L. A. Woodie and daughter, Miss Nettie, came over to Mr.
Howlett's Saturday. Miss Nettie will spend Christmas week with her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howlett.

The basket social and entertainment at Eagle Creek last Saturday evening was quite a success. An interesting program was rendered.
Ed. Bates was the auctioneer and but there are no dated specimens until the seventh century before the Christian era, when the Assyrians used iron saws. The first knives on record were made out of flint and were, in fact, saves with minute teeth. They probably were used for cutting up animals, as the teeth would break away even on soft wood. Rasps, which are but a form of saw, were first made of sheets of bronze punched and coiled round, but the Assyrians in the seventh century used the straight rasp made of iron similar to the modern type.

Mr. and Mrs. Damm were Grange visitors Saturday.

Eagle Creek Grange held its regular session last Saturday. After partaking of a fine dinner, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: M. C. Glover, master; F. W. Bates, overseer; Mrs. S. E. Bates, lecturer; George Smith, steward; Willie Still, assistant steward; Mrs. Lucy Glover, chaplain; H. H. Hoffmeister, treasurer; Mrs. Eva Glover, secretary; Willie Lane, gate-keeper Mrs. L. A.
Gibson, Ceres; Mrs. Hoffmeister, Pomona; Miss Ethel Hale, Flora.

Somewhere Local News

Miss Myrtle Woodie is home for the holidays.
Chas. Dubois arrived home Tuesday to spend the holidays with his family.

The McWillis family of Estacada went to Portland to spend Christmas.

Each room in the Estacada schools had a Christmas tree last Friday afternoon and short programs.

Donald Newman of Tillamook, Ore., is here visiting at the home of his aunt, Miss Maud Sturgeon.

The Carrisville band came up Monday evening and practiced for a short time in the C. I. C. building.

Misses Bessie and Lula Congdon are home from Salem, Ore., to spend the Christmas vacation with their parents.

Mrs. Morton and her committee have everything in elegant shape for the dance tonight. All who are lovers of the terpsichorean art should be present and enjoy the jule time festivities.

LUCK AND LOVE.

First He Won the Father, and Then He Captured the Heiress.

A dozen years ago, fresh from the school of Versailles, came a young under lieutenant of artillery in his new uniform, returning from Normandy, where he had been to see his brother.
On the train the young officer found himself seated beside an old man, who, like himself, was going to Paris.

They entered into conversation. An amiable influence was established between the two travelers. At the west station the old gentleman, taking leave of the young officer, said, "I need a son-in-law like you."

Three months later the officer returned to Normandy. He narrated the incident of the journey to his brother and questioned him about the strange companion.

"I know this old fellow," responded the brother. "Do you know that he offered you a very pretty partner? His daughter possesses an income of 100,- 000 francs."

"Where is she? I'll go after her," said the officer.

The brother made a sorrowful gesture. "Alas! you are a little late."
"Oh, what! Is the young girl to be married?"

"No; her father was buried eight days ago."

The lieutenant was silent for a moment. "But I knew her father. A visit of condolence is imposed upon me."

Dressed in his best uniform, he called upon the lady. He spoke in the most tender terms of the old gentleman. Without doubt the prestige of the uniform was not without effect on the young provincial, and the story as in the pleasant dramas, ended with a marriage. The lieutenant is now a prominent member of the chamber of deputies.—Cris de Paris.

TALES OF TWO DANCES.

London Society at First Rebelled Against Waltz and Polka.

When the waltz first appeared in London it raised a social rumple. The dance came from Poland to London by way of Portsmouth, where its advantages were at once apparent to the women, though the men did not much like seeing other men clasping their wives. It was first danced at Almack's in London by Lady Jersey and two or three of her friends, and society was riven from top to bottom into the waltzers and anti-waltzers. In spite of Lady Jersey's powerful influence, there seemed little chance of the acceptance of the waltz. In 1816 the allied sovereigns came to London and visited Almack's. There they joined in the waltz and removed it from the realm of dissipation. The waltz needed but three sovereigns to make it respectable.

The polka excited almost as much controversy as the waltz on its first introduction into England. Lady Dorothy Nevill recalls a scene at a ball in the late thirties when a deputation of ladies begged the hostess, Mrs. Spencer Stanhope, to allow the polka to be danced by six ladies who understood it.
Permission being accorded, the six stepped out with their partners, all of them, curiously enough, dressed in black, which caused people to say it was a chimney sweep's dance. Extraordinary excitement was created by the innovation. Lady Jersey, the Duchess of Bedford and a number of other women clambered up on the chairs and benches to gain a better view.

History of the Saw.

The earliest tool that has been traced in Egyptian history is the saw. It was found first in the form of a notched bronze knife in the third dynasty, or about 5,000 years before the Christian era, and was followed in the fourth and fifth dynasties by larger toothed saws, which were used by carpenters,
the seventh century before the Chris-
saves with minute teeth. They probably were used for cutting up animals,
round, but the Assyrians in the sev-
type.

Figgerative.

"A schoolboy of eleven," said Professor Thomas R. Lounsbury, Yale's authority on English, "once gave an apt illustration of figurative usage. He gave it in a composition, writing:
"A figurative saying is, 'to keep the wolf from the door.' It does not mean to keep a real live wolf from the door, as a good instance is when the landlord comes for the rent. He knocks at the door and you keep awful quiet, in the hope that he will think there is nobody in and go away.'"—Washington Star.

The Paragon.

"Have you any employee who doesn't talk baseball, horse racing and prizedighting all the time, to the exclusion of business?"

"Yes."
"Where did you get him?"
"It isn't a him; it's a her."—Pittsburgh Post.

Was It?

"I gave Walter a beautiful necktie of my own make for a birthday present," said Mabel.
"Was he pleased?"
"Oh, yes; he said his beauty shall be for no other eyes than his own. Wasn't that lovely of him?"—Lippincott's.

Friendship is love without his wings.
—Byron.

Showing Him How.

"You young scoundrel!" said the father, seizing his disobedient son by the hand. "I'll show you how to treat your mother!"
And he gave him several bangs on the ears and then shook him until his hair began to fall out.

Her Little Slip.

ply delightful time! Hostess—I'm so glad! At the same time I regret that the storm kept all our best people away.—Brooklyn Life.

Restoration to Entry of Lands in National Forest.

Notice is hereby given that the lands described below, embracing 177.94 acres, within the Oregon National Forest, Oregon, will be subject to settlement and entry under the provisions of the homestead laws of the United States and the act of June 11, 1906 (34 Stat., 233), at the United States land office at Portland, Oregon, on February 18, 1914. Any settler who was actually and in good faith claiming any of said lands for agricultural purposes prior to January 1, 1906, and has not abandoned same, has a preference right to make a homestead entry for the lands actually occupied. Said lands were listed upon the applications of the persons mentioned below, who have a preference right subject to the prior right of any such settler, provided such settler or applicant is qualified to make homestead entry and the preference right is exercised prior to February 18, 1914, on which date the lands will be subject to settlement and entry by any qualified person. The lands are as follows: The E1-2 SE1-4 SE1-4, Sec. 12, T. 3 S., R. 7

The Best Light At The Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing lights. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place, thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess those qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.
