As last Sunday was the fifth Sunday in the month, services were held both morning and evening at the M. E. church. This will not occur again before Conference at least, which will be held in September, so that until further notice the regular order of services as printed in the Progress, will be carried out.

The change in the mail service took place Monday morning. Harold Wooster has route 3. Sidney Wooster has route 2 and Sidney Smith is the Star carrier between Estacada and Golton. There was something doing around the post-office Monday morning, but the new men got started all right even if Postmaster Johnson did get a little nervous.

There was no formal program on Memorial day at this place, but the business houses were closed in the afternoon and most all decorated with flags and the large park flag hung at half mast. Quite a large number of people visited the cemetery to place flowers on the graves of departed loved ones. The town was full of visitors who patronized the park, the ice cream parlors and the restaurants and in the afternoon there was a ball game.

Graduation Exercises

The fifth annual Commencement of the Estacada high school, was held last Thursday evening at the high school auditorium. The room was filled to its capacity and all seemed to enjoy the program.

The first on the program was the invocation by Rev. C. B. Rees which was followed by a class song by a chorus of mixed voices. C. F. Aue then delighted the audience with a violin solo and also responded to an encore. L. E. Belfis' cornet solo followed and then came the address to the class by Dr. Gilbert of the University of Oregon. Mr. Aue gave another violin selection and then Prof. B. F. Ford with a few well chosen remarks, presented the diplomas. Stanley Belfis had a vocal solo and the chorus sang "Red, White and Blue." Miss Hattie Belfis was the accompanist.

Guy Graham and Hurley Fellows, members of the class who departed a month ago for Alaska, received their diplomas the same as the other members of the class, as they passed the required examinations to the satisfaction of their teachers, before their departure. Those present of the class roll were Robert E. Morton, Wm. K. Bartlett, Mattie A. Lewis, Margaret E. Seward, Wava G. Herring, Delia P. Rynning and Albert Shankland. Mr. Ford announced that all the graduates were planning on going to some college this fall.

And thus another successful year's work has been added to the Estacada school history. Supt. Burgess F. Ford, with his splendid corps of teachers, has put the Estacada school to the front ranks as a thorough institution of learning. The retaining of all but one of the former teachers, and we understand that she does not intend to teach next year, shows the confidence imposed in the former regime, that they will keep up the present high standard of the school and continue to make it one of the best in the state.

Free Bible Lectures

It is expected that much interest will be taken in the series of free bible lectures in the Family Theatre next Sunday. Like every other movement advancing progressive ideas, the International Bible Students Association has had to fight its way in the face of considerable opposition, till now it is high in the list of Christian activities. Its five hundred lecturers comprising ministers and laymen from all denominations, are actively engaged in all parts of the globe and its free literature distributed in America alone during the past year is said to total approximately one billion tract pages. A statement is to the effect that "that the movement is meeting with hearty support on every hand, especially from those who believe in united bible study, unhindered by sectarian differences and tiresome collections." The unsectarian Bible lectures are becoming more and more popular, the largest theatres often proving too small to accommodate the crowds that gather. "Beyond the Grave" is the first of the series. This lecture will be delivered Sunday, June 7th, 3 o'clock, at the Family Theatre, by A. A. Yerex of Portland. The speaker is said to be a close student of the bible, and it is believed ed that he will have something to offer well worth hearing. A cordial invitation is extended to all Christian people and to all others desiring to hear this subject discussed from the Bible standpoint. As usual, admission will be free, and no collection will be solicited.
