In the Chilean Andes there is a lake 10,000 feet deep in the mountains, which is prevented only by a granite wall a few feet thick from devastating the valley below. In order to avert the disaster engineers are draining the water by a tunnel and expect to supply electrical current and light to all the valley cities through the water power which will be developed.

Oregon Will Insist On Law of Compensation Act

Salem—"The state has faith in its own medicine," said C. D. Babcock, of the State Industrial Accident Commission. "The Tumalo project now being built by Project Engineer Luraugard, under the direction of the State Land Board, will be completed under the view of having all state-aided roads built under the protection of the compensation act. Ledoux & Ledoux, contractors, engaged in the construction of several large buildings on the state fair grounds, will drop their liability insurance and complete the work under the compensation act.

"The contracts for the new buildings on the campus of the University of Oregon at Eugene will contain a clause requiring the contractor to do the work under the law. Several cities and at least one county will accept the benefits of the act. During the past week 389 withdrawals of rejections have been received, including some of the most important concerns in the state. No doubt the great increase in old-line liability insurance rates to take effect July 1 has caused many employers to change their attitude toward the state law."

"Major Bowlby, state highway engineer, is looking into the matter with a view of having all state-aided roads built under the protection of the compensation act. Ledoux & Ledoux, contractors, engaged in the construction of several large buildings on the state fair grounds, will drop their liability insurance and complete the work under the compensation act.

Apple Shipment to Be Aided When Canal Opens

Eugene—German beer will prove a tremendous boon to the fruitgrowers of the Pacific Coast, according to H. C. Sampson, secretary of the North Pacific Fruit Distributors' association, who spoke to the Lane county fruit-growers here Wednesday. He declared that, upon the opening of the Panama canal, the German vessels that have brought large cargoes of beer, which he says, Germany expects to ship to this coast, will have empty bottoms in which to carry back Oregon and Washington fruit. The rate to Europe, he states, will be half what it is at present. Apples can be shipped to Germany for 50 cents a box and he sold there as cheaply as in New York.

Mr. Sampson bases these statements upon a series of conferences with the managers of principal Eastern steamship companies. He states that he has been working 18 months and has traveled 19,000 miles to determine how the Northwest is going to market 12,500 carloads of apples which new orchards in the Northwest are about to produce. The railroads, he says, have not refrigerator equipment sufficient to handle this business.

Effective organization of growers in the Northwest and the opening of the canal, with the immediate development of a European market, are the factors to solve this problem, he declares.

"When I went east I realized that the canal means everything to the fruitgrowers of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Eastern Montana," he added.

The Hawaiian-American line has six big steamers, the Grace lines will have four steamships, the Cosmos line, the Hamburg line, the North German-Lloyd line, all will have empty bottoms in which to carry refrigerated fruit from the Pacific Northwest to Europe. The Eugene fruitgrowers at the meeting agreed to send a representative to Portland when the two new branches of the North Pacific Fruit Distributors' association will be formed, with headquarters in Portland.

O. A. C. Holds Forty-Fifth Annual Commencement

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis—The Forty-fifth Annual Commencement at the Agricultural college concluded Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, when diplomas were awarded the largest class in the history of the school. This commencement was noted merely for the large number in the graduating class, but because of the many among them who have already secured important positions in various parts of this state and other states of whom have already entered upon their duties. The class of students who took major work in horticulture have almost without exception secured important and profitable positions in orchard work in Oregon and other Northwestern states.

In addition to the students taking the regular bachelor degree, six special students graduated in musical course, two in voice, and four on the piano. There were also three students who took advanced post-graduate work in agriculture, majoring in horticulture, who were granted master's degrees.

The morning was devoted to an open-air program, in which consisted of music, recitations and an address by H. E. Slattery, a Eugene attorney. At noon all participated in a bountiful dinner, and later the younger folks watched an exciting ball game between local teams while the older ones "reminded."

The Donna Orange, 16 miles from Eugene, also held a picnic in which 500 participated. I. H. Bingham, of Eugene, delivered the address. A dinner was held at noon, followed by a baseball game. A dance was held which began at 4 o'clock and lasted until midnight. Both picnics had band music.

Pioneers of Lane County Hold Big Celebration

Eugene—For more than a third of a century Lane county pioneers living near Pleasant Hill have held annual picnic and reunion. Approximately 1500 from a radius of 20 miles Wednesday participated in the huge celebration, the largest affair of its kind ever held in Lane county.

State Has Land for Sale. Salem—Governor West said Wednesday that water would be turned on two units of the Tumalo irrigation project at once and about 2000 acres of fine land would be offered for sale by the state. The units comprise about 10,000 acres, but much of the land has been settled.

"It is a rare opportunity for home-seekers to obtain fine land at about $40 an acre," said the governor. "All home-seekers interested should communicate with O. Luraugard, project engineer of the Tumalo work."

Three Convicts Escape. Salem—After an all-day search Colonel Lawson, warden of the state penitentiary, and a posse of guards, announced Wednesday night that they had obtained no clue to the whereabouts of W. E. Clark, Frank Miller and Harry Baker, convicts, who escaped from a gang of men who were put to work digging potatoes on the prison farm early Tuesday. Colonel Lawson and his posse searched for miles around the prison, and it is believed the men are hiding in the brush or got out of the neighborhood.

Council Votes Town Dry. Coquille—Although the city of Coquille is a wet town in the eyes of the local option law, the city council voted five to one against granting licenses to the four saloons after July 1. The council took this action after considering a petition signed by 445 citizens asking that the saloons be closed. The liquor interests will contest the city council's right to refuse licenses to the saloons, which are operating under the law.

Petrified Foot Is Found. Pendleton—A petrified foot, apparently of a human giant, has been dug up here by workmen in the excavation for the building that is to be erected for the Evening Telegram. The fossil is perfect in form and measures more than a foot in length. It was found at a depth of eight feet. Major Lee Moorhouse, who has taken charge of the find, may send it to some college for an opinion on it.

Peace Conference Counts On Aid From Carranza

Washington, D. C.—Every indication in Washington Wednesday pointed to participation by the constitutionalists of Mexico in the mediation conference at Niagara Falls.

While final word was awaited by his agents here from General Carranza as to the answer to be forwarded to the South American mediators to their proposals, delay was accounted for by telegraphic disturbances between the United States border and Saltito. It was expected the definite position of the constitutionalists would be communicated to Niagara Falls before many hours.

Some of those in touch with the chief of the constitutionalists insisted that the revolutionary leaders would not consent to an armistice in the campaign against the Huerta government, but that he would express willingness to acquiesce in peace proposals as they relate to establishment of a provisional government pending a general election, provided ample representation is given in the provisional government to the belligerents against Huerta.

Should Carranza refuse a cessation of hostilities, it seemed improbable here that his representatives would be received in the mediation conference, but this contingency failed to affect the optimism of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan as to the outcome of the Mexican difficulties.

This was accounted for in great measure by the suggestion from Niagara Falls that Carranza had already received in the mediation conference, but this contingency failed to affect the optimism of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan as to the outcome of the Mexican difficulties.
