The high schools' negative debating team met Forest Grove's affirmative team at Forest Grove last Friday evening, and the question of "Government Ownership of Railroads" was thrashed to a "frazzle." The Estacada worthies proved conclusively that Government ownership would be a decided "fizzle," but the judges were evidently bought by the railroads, for they gave Forest Grove the victory by a vote of two to one. Since the two teams were tied by the victory at Estacada, the boys will have a chance to redeem themselves next Friday and they returned home with the determination to win, if hard work will do it.
