Sometime ago the Oregon City jokers were having lots of fun at the expense of Estacada, claiming that Estacada's dogs were masquerading in wolf skins and netting about $25. per pelt for bounty.

The laugh seems to have disappeared lately, for their entire attention is now taken up with their own little menagerie, consisting of a herd of obstreperous Moose and a litter of Blind Tigers.

The county-seaters deserve much credit though for the firm stand they are taking in stamping out the booze evil.

No recent announcements have been made regarding the Clackamas County Fair and the county court have little to say relative to any appropriations to be made for its maintenance.

There is little likelihood now of the East Clackamas Fair getting any county appropriation, unless some extra strong pressure can be brought to bear on the powers in charge of the money bag.

What do you think of the O. A. C. supplements to the Progress? Are they of value or interest to you, as a reader.

An expression of opinion on this subject was asked for a couple of weeks ago, but to date, little or no comment has been forthcoming.

The editor of the O. A. C. supplements has this week advised us that they are contemplating doubling the capacity of these bulletins by printing practical farming stories on the reverse side of the sheets. They asked the if we would stand the added expense for such service. We, being willing to try anything once, wrote them to furnish us the full quota of news, from soup to dessert; so the readers may soon look for more practical articles.

It is a hard matter to obtain an expression of public opinion on any subject in this community, except where a ballot is taken. Undoubtedly much better work could be done from our pulpits, in our schools and through our newspapers, if more suggestions and expressions of public sentiment were offered by the people.

Those people who have had experience with the specifications governing prize contesting exhibits at the Oregon State Fair, may have wondered at some of the qualifications pertaining to the bundling of grain. The rules insist that all grain must be stripped and bundled into tight bunches, of about 4 inches in diameter.

The object of this ruling has never been satisfactorily explained, but the East Clackamas Fair can do a good work by not adopting such specifications. There are few exhibits handsomer than a natural sheaf of grain with the leaf blades on the stalks and grain should be exhibited in this form. It would be as sensible to prepare bunches of roses by stripping all leaves and mounting the blossoms on a stick.

The Estacada city election is over, the candidates elected represent the choice of the majority of the people. Now let's everyone join and unanimously support and give encouragement to the new officials.

Two Outlaws Captured

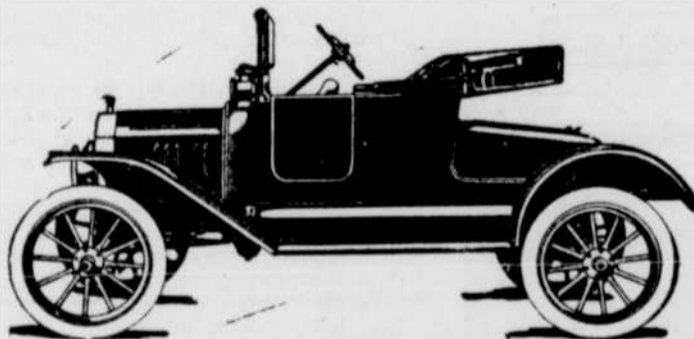

Beginning with the return of the fair weather, the local trout began to show some interest in biting and in the past week several fine catches have been made.

Last Thursday evening, W. B. Simmons of Estacada spent about one hour in a boat on Estacada lake landing a big rainbow trout, on a No. 8 fly with regulation light tackle. The fish measured almost 21 inches and weighed a little less than 4 lbs.

Ray Eschleman of Estacada on his return from the Cary Hot Springs brought in a 4½ lb. trout, which, while measuring only 19 inches, was exceptionally fat and solid. This fish was caught on the upper waters of the Clackamas.

Estacada Leads Always

County School Superintendent Calavan has made the announcement that the school gardens at Harmony are the second best, only being surpassed by those at Estacada. It is the same old story, "only being surpassed by Estacada."

Anyone can understand and operate a Ford car. Extremely simple, yet absolutely scientific in every detail. No need of a skilled mechanic to keep your Ford running. Each owner looks after it himself. Doctors, farmers, business men, men in every walk of life, enjoy Ford service and economy, for a Ford costs, on the average, but two cents a mile to operate and maintain.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Touring Car $565; Runabout $515.
