Newlyweds Hike For Eight Days

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Peterson of Springwater, who since their marriage on July 24th, have been spending their honeymoon at Pacific City, Or., returned to Springwater last week.

The couple made the return trip walking from the coast to Estacada in eight days, leisurely viewing the country through which they passed and spending the nights at hotels along the route. Their itinerary comprised Hebo, Dolf, Midway, Willamina, McMinnville, Newberg, Sherwood, Oregon City and home.

Pink Tea For College Girl

A dainty pink tea was given last Tuesday afternoon by Miss Elizabeth Reid of Garfield in honor of Miss Rachael Reed of Estacada, who is leaving in a few days to continue her college course at the University of Washington.

Corrected Error

In last week's Progress, the initials of Mrs. Alspaugh of Alspaugh should have read Mrs. E. L. instead of Mrs. A. L.

Mrs. Alspaugh recently entertained her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Rendleman of Salisbury, N. C. Mr. and Mrs. Rendleman were on their wedding trip, having been married early in August, previous to their visit here.

Census Booming

The population of Currinsville has been increased within the past few weeks by the adding of two future voters; a son having been born at the Coyd Looney home and a daughter at the George Walters' home, youngsters and mothers are reported to be getting along finely.

Progress Finally Answered

To sum the whole matter up, the Progress started something, and hereafter may not rely quite as explicitly on the truth of some of its neighboring editor's statements. The disturbance raised has not been in vain, whether it ended by changing the plans of the court as to the distribution of the auto license money or not; it at least has extracted a detailed financial statement accounting for the expenditure of part of the money and has stirred up the members of the court to a recognition of Eastern Clackamas county and its rights.

Undoubtedly much harm is done the county court by misrepresentation, especially on the part of the newspapers and if that is the case, the Progress' columns are always open to any refutation on the part of the court, of any article having appeared in its columns or those of any other newspaper.

Attorney Ill

Claude W. Devore of Estacada is ill at his home on Main St. Mr. Devore and family recently returned from an auto tour of California and it is likely he contracted a malarial fever from mosquito or drinking water infection while in the south.

His son Elsmere is also suffering from a milder attack of the same disease and while both father and son are very sick, their physician reports no great danger.

George Fair Huge Success

Among the Portland visitors were Messrs. Hunt and Townsend of the P. R. L. & P. Co., who appeared to thoroughly enjoy themselves and showed no dyspeptic qualities during the lunch hour. The name of the party winning the prize board, donated by the P. R. L. & P. Co., has not been announced as yet.

The George Fair not only represented a fine exhibit and an attraction for the local and visiting public, but it exemplified the value of cooperation in a community, along social and development lines; as everyone had joined to work for the home advancement, forgetting petty jealousies and working for the common good and the growth of George as a community.
