On the last day before the county taxes became delinquent, the Portland Railway Light & Power Company paid into the hands of tax collector George Harrington of Oregon City, the sum of $69,429.04, which is a larger amount of money than an editor makes in a year.

Clackamas County is fortunate to have within its borders a corporation, which pays such a large amount of taxes, amounting to almost $300,000 per year. Our county should show especial consideration in every way possible to any corporation or body of capitalists, whose operations, investments and extensions so directly benefit every resident and tax payer.

That feeling of jealousy, intolerance and unfairness, which is often felt towards a corporation, is fast disappearing in this county, for we know that the Portland Railway Light & Power Company are our neighbors and friends, working with us in the development and prosperity of our community.

Oregon City was greatly surprised last week to have a deer killed within a mile of its business center. Of course, it is merely a matter of environment and choice for the denizens of the wild, but Estacada with the hum, hustle and bustle of a thriving community, offers poor conditions for rest and grazing.

Loganberry juice will indelibly write the name of Oregon across the map of the civilized world.—Exchange.

With the glad news that Fritz Boysen, of the notorious Hotel Belle of Milwaukie, is to leave the county, the office of sheriff of Clackamas County should be a sinecure, for Fritz has always operated a disreputable place, causing the county much expense and trouble to keep it within the bounds of the law.

If a few more proprietors of similar objectionable places in this county would "hit the trail" it would leave more money for permanent improvements.

Kingsdaughters Surprise Classmate

Last Monday evening, the six Kings Daughters of the Estacada M. E. Church, tendered a pleasant surprise party on their seventh class-mate, Miss Elsie Worden.

The party was held at the home of Miss Edna Jorg and with the assistance of Mesdames Worden and Jorg, the young folks spent an enjoyable evening.

Hunting Accident Sunday

The opening of the bird season in this county was heralded by one serious accident which occurred near home, with Ernest Hoffmeister of Eagle Creek receiving a load of bird shot in the arm and shoulder, as the result of the accidental discharge of his brother Will's gun.

Dr. Carl of Estacada was immediately called and after dressing the wound temporarily, had the victim taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, where an X-ray examination was made. All of the shot may not be removed but part of the pellets which were hindering the proper circulation in the arm may have to be extracted. Ernest probably will not be able to get his share of Chinas this season, but is fortunate not to have been the recipient of the gun's discharge at closer range.

Estacada Exhibit Sold

The attractive display of canned fruits, jellies and vegetables exhibited at the Estacada, Gresham and Canby fairs by Mrs. Copeland of Estacada was purchased by the management of the county exhibit for use at the state fair.

Messrs R. M. Townsend and F. D. Hunt of the P. R. L. & P. Co. were Estacada business visitors last Tuesday and will attend the meeting at the Garfield Country Club next Friday.

Indications Of A Hard Winter

From the number of fire places being built in this neighborhood this fall, it looks as though a hard winter was expected.

With Alex Botkin of Garfield as hod carrier, mason Upton of Estacada completed the building of a chimney and fire place on the remodeled Botkin house. This comfortable and homelike residence now rivals the newly built Archie Yocum house nearby.

The Irwin D. Wrights of Estacada will no longer help consume the heat from the editor's fire place on chilly evenings, as the Wright home is now being equipped with a massive fireplace, Willis Cox doing the work.

One of the allurements of the new W. F. Cary home on Terrace Addition is its fireplace and similar conveniences will be built in other homes this winter.

Money In Good Name

A Portland man has been offered a quarter of a million dollars for his dairy and condensed milk trademark. This was pointed out by Dean J. A. Bextell, of the O. A. C. School of Commerce, in speaking of the value of a suitable distinguishing name for a farm. He thinks that every farmer should select an attractive name for his farm that may also serve as a trade mark for his products. By keeping his goods up to the standard indicated by the trade-mark and then by advertising them where he expects them to be sold, he will be able to dispose of most of his surplus at good prices and fair profits. The trade-mark should also be printed on his farm stationery.

Cheese Factory

The stockholders of the Canby Canning Company are arranging to finance and construct a cheese factory, which, when completed, will include an ice making and refrigeration plant.

Pay Your Bills With Checks
