“YOUR SATISFACTION IS OUR SUCCESS”

Who Did It?

While the majority of the Halloween pranks of Saturday night were confined to innocent pleasures, such as stealing gates, chalking windows and the like, somebody or rather somebodies tore up 75 feet of old wooden sidewalk on Broadway in front of the jewelry, Progress and Hendrick's properties.

While the actual amount of damage done was not great, owing to the rotten condition of the walks, which would soon have been replaced with cement, it was carrying the Halloween spirit too far and until the walks are replaced, is causing a great deal of inconvenience and presents an unsightly appearance.

All sorts of guesses have been made as to the parties committing the depredations, with every amateur detective doing his best Sherlocking. To date, the accused parties have represented anything from the kindergarten class, to the Odd Fellows, Ladies Aid and City Council. Inasmuch as there were several dance parties Saturday evening, along with other amusements keeping the populace up till a late hour, there is room for more suspects.

While the tearing up of sidewalk is too serious an offense to come under the heading of Halloween pranks, few people would have felt greatly incensed had the job included a few other rickety old plank walks along Broadway and even the planks on the street itself.

It probably will not be long before the property owners replace the destroyed walks with cement and the council has already ordered the grade stakes set.

Housewives Attention

The Parent - Teacher association is pleased to announce a course in Home - making to be given by Miss Mc Quaid.

The course will consist of 15 lessons, treating in a general way various problems of the home, relative to cooking, sewing, hand work, home decoration etc.

The class will meet Wednesday mornings from 9.40 till 11.30

The tuition for the course will be but $1.50 or 10c a lesson. All ladies of the town, whether club women or not, are eligible for membership. Those interested should attend the next meeting of the association on November 11th, when the class will be organized.

Equaled The Birth of a Nation

The stupendous, spectacular motion picture, Quo Vadis, shown at the Family Theatre in Estacada Wednesday evening, was a great treat to the big crowd of movie fans who witnessed the exhibition.

While much has been said of the famous film "The Birth of a Nation", Wednesday's film play was the equal, if not the superior having cost as much to stage and depicting wonderful scenes connected with the early days of Christianity during the Roman rule.

If the mid-week programs, as staged by Mgr. Sparks for the past two weeks, continue, they will prove not only a paying investment to him, but a pleasing attraction to the public.

Bill's Going To Leave Us

W. A. Jones of Estacada returned Monday from a week's auto trip and hunting excursion near Cloverdale. Bill refuses to furnish the Progress reporter a list of the deer and other game killed, but as no deer hairs were found on his clothes or venison scent on his breath, he possibly didn't commit undue depredations among the denizens of the wild.

Bill leaves Saturday for Tillamook, where he contemplates going into business, operating his auto between Tillamook and Cloverdale. His family probably will not follow for a month or so, but ultimately will join him there.

The W. A. Jones Feed & Livery barn in Estacada, will be in charge of A. Hurlbert, who will conduct the business for Jones.

The people of Estacada and surrounding country will greatly miss Bill, for he has been identified with Estacada and its growth since the days when the city was a village, the hotel a boarding house and the Clackamas a mere creek. Everybo'y likes Bill and joins with the Progress in wishing him all kinds of success in his new field.

Woodmen Lodge Established

Saturday evening, Nov. 6th, in Wilbern's Hall, Eagle Creek, a Woodmen's Lodge will be established.

The Rose City Degree Team will be guests and the Woodmen's Lodge 77 will bring their band.

Refreshments will be served and a good time is expected by all who attend.
