

Lumbermen Buy Local Bred Horses

With the opening up of the lumber and logging business this spring, the demand for sound, heavy horses, means high prices to the raisers. John Steinman of Currinsville last week, sold a four year old, 1740lb bay mare to Portland lumber men, for $225 and with the rapidly advancing prices, could have made $50 more had he waited a few weeks longer.

Springwater Spasmodics

The above heading is not intended to cast any insinuations on the news items from Springwater, but rather characterizes the infrequency of their arrival at the News office, but possibly they are the more welcome for their tardiness.

A Ladies Aid Society has been organized in the Springwater Presbyterian Church, which promises to do good work in that line.

David Horner is decorating the local Grange Hall and its stage. When completed, the people will have a comfortable and attractive hall.

Sherman Kilgore and Fred Horner are planning to give a play.

The Chorus is at work Thursday evenings, preparing for Easter services.

Attorney C. W. Devore of Estacada, while enroute through Springwater Monday morning, was hailed and stopped four times within a half mile by parties who supposed it was a Portland jitney. (P. S.—Correspondent did not state whether Devore accommodated the travelers and made enough to pay for the gasoline.)

Good News

C. L. Allen of Estacada called at the News office last Monday to have chronicled the following good news:—Namely, that he has sold, disposed of and hopes to never see again, his famous white-faced cow, which for a couple of years past, has held all records under the town's non-herd law, for being the darndest, meanest, cussedest nuisance on four legs.

The critter is to be beefed and if any local butcher ever offers parts of that animal's carcass for sale in Estacada, he should sell every scrap of it from hoof to tail, for there probably is not a property, garden or lawn owner in town, who would not buy a steak or two, just for the privilege of finally sinking a knife into that old white-faced cow's vitals.

The News will give equally free publicity to the memorial notices of one or two other local cows, when the glad time arrives for them to visit the slaughter house.

DeMoss Concert Entertainers

On Saturday evening, April 1st, at the M. E. Church, the De Moss Concert Entertainers of De Moss, Oregon will give a concert, under the auspices of the Estacada Boy Scout Camp. Admission adults 35c—children 15c. Everyone invited.

A. A. Allen of Viola sustained a fracture of the arm last week; the accident occurring while he was shoeing a horse, which tramped on him.

Harry Stokes and family of Garfield returned home Thursday, after an extended absence in Virginia.

Mac Millan Leaving For California

The many friends of Noble Mac Millan, of the Upper Dam, Estacada Hotel, Springwater Ranch or wherever Mac makes his headquarters in his capacity of assistant engineer of the P. R. L. & P. crew, are sorry to learn of his contemplated abandonment of Estacada.

Mac, who will probably be accompanied by Cecil Schock of South Estacada, is arranging to have his newly purchased Ford auto shipped this week to San Francisco, where the pair will begin a wanderlust tour of that state, primarily looking for suitable jobs, but really out for a good time.

The News is joined by their many friends in wishing them success in their wanderings, but hopes their ultimate destination will be back home in Estacada.

Brooks To Visit In East

John Brooks, who has been connected with the P. R. L. & P. Co.'s work along the upper Clackamas for the past ten years, is now taking an extended vacation and is leaving next week for the east, where he will visit a brother in New York City and a sister in Boston, neither of whom he has seen for 25 years.

If the European war ends this summer, he expects to extend his trip to Switzerland, his former home, to visit his aged father. John has a couple of brothers in South America, but will have to put off making them a visit until some future vacation.

George and Art Smith of Eagle Creek, last week purchased an Overland car.
