 speakers yet, but promise to obtain famous men of today and men worth listening to.

The other candidates will be staged somewhat as the freaks are handled at a side-show, being ushered out one at a time on a platform and introduced to the assemblage; thereafter being allowed to pursue their own informal methods of obtaining votes among the people. None of them will be allowed to speak from the platform, which may prove a treat, but they will be on exhibit.

On receipt of a request from the residents in the Springwater and Viola districts, the board has agreed to permit these two districts to exhibit as one, as originally agreed upon in the first establishment of the boundary lines.

Few people realize the heavy responsibilities that are resting upon the members of the fair board at this time. They not only are willingly and unselfishly giving hours of their time to working out the plans for a successful fair, but they are having to try to stimulate sufficient pride in others to aid in the work. Too much credit cannot be given this board, for the work so far done and the dozen times more work yet to be accomplished.

All that is asked of the people of eastern Clackamas County is their cooperation in making the fair a success. All are urged to obtain premium lists at once and to make it a particular point to make some entries.

As one of the fair board, who is poetically and ethereally inclined has aptly said of your exhibit, "It may not be the best, but if it is your best, it may skin the rest."

So here goes—the plan is to have four contesting teams, namely Currinsville, Garfield, Springwater and Eagle Creek. Each team must be made up of men residing only in those districts. The editor is hereby officially notifying the following men that they will be held responsible, to organize and have ready, baseball teams to represent their home districts, namely: Roy Alspaugh of Currinsville, John Park of Springwater; Fred Anderson of Eagle Creek and Alex Botkin of Garfield. These men may act as playing managers or managers alone as they may elect.

Valuable prizes will be given to the winning team. On Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Garfield and Currinsville will play the first game. On Thursday
