men contributed than the dozen contemplated, so nearer $50. was raised.

If this was a yearly occurrence, little attention would have been paid to it, but it is a safe assertion that the business men of Es-tacada contribute over $15. per year each towards Estacada school activities, in some form or another. During the course of a year, these same wealthy (?) merchants are called upon to buy tickets to all kinds, sorts and conditions of student body plays, entertainments, carnivals and teas, besides contributing further with advertisements, on programs, menus, bulletins, catalogs and similar announcements.

To the above $15. or more, contributed to school activities, may be added not less than double that amount given willingly to church, club and other worthy enterprises, both in Estacada and in communities adjacent.

With the exception of this contribution towards an object which should be financed by the school treasury, few merchants object to doing their share towards aiding all causes from charity to sure-bets.

Is it any more than fair that these business men and merchants should expect to receive the patronage of the people residing in this territory? Is it any more fair that they should expect to receive the patronage of every student in the Estacada schools, the parents of the pupils and every family identified with the schools?

How many dollars has Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck or anyone of the Portland mail-order houses contributed towards local needs? Not one darn cent.

There probably is not a man or woman in this country who does not believe in fair play and all that the News asks is that proper credit be given to the business men of Estacada, who each year are bearing this added burden alone.

The next time you get ready to send a little hard earned money away from home for your supplies, stop and think this over and at least give the home merchant a chance to quote you prices, as there are many reasons why your money should stay in home circulation.

day will comprise one representing the Republican party and one from the Democratic party. The names of these speakers have not been announced yet, but the Republicans promise to be represented by either Hon. A. E. Clark, Congressman Hawley or Senator Huston of Portland, while the Democratic speaker will be Mark V. Weatherford of Albany.

In the absence of State Supt. of Public Instruction, J. A. Churchill, the principal speaker will be L. R. Alderman, Supt. of the Portland schools and also County Supt.
J. E. Calavan of Oregon City.

On Friday morning, the excitement should reach a climax, when the judges make the awards in the prize baby contest, the judging beginning promptly at 10.
