COUNTY AND STATE GO REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION STILL DOUBTFUL

Stephens Elected To Legislature
Bates Defeats Ames For Constable

Clackamas county Republicans have registered substantial majorities for every nominee of their party, with the sole exception of district attorney. Hughes has a lead in the county, with only six precincts to hear from of 986. Hawley, for congress, has beaten Weatherford by more than two to one and the rest of the Republican state ticket has long leads.

Hawley is reelected in the state, as are Congressmen Sinnott from the second district and Congressman McArthur, from the third district, the latter having a hard fight against Lafferty, whom he defeated in the primaries and who ran as an independent. Hughes carries the state by several thousand.

Six of the constitutional amendments on the ballot fared well in Clackamas county. The state wide tax limitation amendment received the approval of the voters here, as did rural credits, the repeal of the Sunday blue law, anti-compulsory vaccination, ship tax exemption and the single item veto carried in Clackamas county, while the negro suffrage, land and loan amendment, Pendleton normal, brewers' amendment and the prohibition amendment lost in this county.

District Attorney Hedges was reelected over William M. Stone, the Republican nominee, who received in 78 out of 81 precincts 4791 to 5130 for Hedges.

Dr. H. A. Delman, of Canby; Harold C. Stephens of George, and George C. Brownell, of Canby, were elected representatives in the state legislature, though J. E. Jack, the Democratic candidate, made a very good run. A. H. Eurlon, the Republican nominee for joint representative, was elected in both Clackamas and Multnomah counties over Rex Lampmann, the Democratic candidate. J. E. Calavan was reelected county school superintendent without opposition, and W. A. Proctor was chosen for county commissioner over C. W. Risley. For county clerk Iva M. Harrington was reelected, as were County Treasurer Dunn, Coroner Hempstead, Sheriff Wilson and Surveyor Johnson. Dudley C. Boyles obtained a large majority over his Socialist opponent for county recorder, and W. W. Everhart was elected assessor over G. F. Johnson, Democrat.

In the entire state it appears from fragmentary returns that the following constitutional amendments have been adopted:

Single item veto, ship tax exemption, negro suffrage, Pendleton normal, Sunday closing repeal, rural credits and state wide tax limitation.

The amendments that have been defeated are the brewers' amendment, full rental land tax, anti-compulsory vaccination and absolute prohibition.

Of the eastern Clackamas districts, Estacada 1 and 2, Springwater, Viola and Eagle Creek went Democratic with George, Barton and Garfield, Republican. These figures were true in the presidential vote, but generally in the county balloting, eastern Clackamas went as did the county at large, in favor of the Republican candidates.

Apparently little "single-shotting" was done on the candidates for the legislature, as in nearly every instance H. C. Stephens of George received the high vote, with Geo. C. Brownell second and H. A. Dedman, third. Despite the strong Democratic tendency in many local districts, J. E. Jack, the Democratic candidate, received the small end of the voting.

The vote for County Commissioner was close, with Proctor of Sandy winning, especially as George and other districts near Sandy voted strongly for their neighbor.

The vote on the District Attorney was consistent, with the Republican districts standing well for Stone and the Democratic ones going for Hedges.

On the amendments and initiative measures, eastern Clackamas took a decided stand, strongly voting down the Brewers' Amendment and generally voting for all measures that carried and against those defeated elsewhere in the state.

For Constable, Edwin Bates of Estacada on the Republican ticket, defeated A. G. Ames of Estacada, the Democrat, even in the districts that were strongly Democratic.

A small Socialist vote was evident, with a scattering of Prohibition strength, with the Progressives nearly eliminated.

Of all county officers, probably Miss Iva Harrington as County Clerk, received the highest endorsement locally, even as compared with other offices where no competition existed.

Has Hand Crushed Under Car

A. J. Dwyer of Barton, head of the Dwyer logging camps at that place, met with a severe and painful accident November 1st, when during the course of shunting cars, he fell between two cars, with the wheels nearly severing his right wrist.

Dr. Adix of Estacada was immediately called and after rendering first aid, had Mr. Dwyer taken to St. Vincent's Hospital in Portland, where it is reported the hand will not have to be amputated.

CROWDS GUESTS OF MERCHANTS

Free Movies, Dance And Returns
Hold Visitors Till Late Hour

Tuesday night in Estacada was a gala time with five hundred or more of the town and country people enjoying the festivities as guests of the business men.

The eleventh hour arrangements of the hosts were rather crude, but with free moving pictures, election return service, refreshments and a big dance, everyone apparently had a good time.

A more good natured and orderly crowd was never assembled locally and until 10:30 o'clock the business district was the scene of the fun, with the merriment continuing in the Estacada Pavilion during the dance, until a late hour.

Had the merchants been able to give a little more time to the amusements and musical attractions, with a better illumination on Broadway, it is possible a better time might have been had, but as it was, everyone seemed to be happy, with a few just a little more happy than their fellows.

County Championship To Be Settled

Next Saturday afternoon, November 11th on the Estacada gridiron, the football game to decide the Clackamas County High School championship, will be played, between teams representing Oregon City and Estacada.

While the record of the Estacada team so far this year is not as good as last seasons, the team is now worked into fast condition and should make the county seaters hustle to win the championship.

Last year's contest at Oregon City, it will be remembered, resulted in a game called on account of darkness with the score 0 to 0, but nothing short of a victory will satisfy Coach Baker's men for this year.

A big crowd of local rooters should attend this game and help the home team win, for Estacada like any other team always plays better on the home grounds and before a friendly crowd.
