Youngsters Have Unlucky Day

As Pat O'Connor of Estacada aptly puts it in his rich brogue—"The good Lord sure does look out for the kiddies"—was true one day last week, when the Broadway gang of three-year-olds, comprising Floyd Marchbank, Raymond Devore and John Hubbard Standish was partially depleted by accidents.

Floyd fell from the loading platform in front of Givens' store, receiving a badly gashed forehead, necessitating medical attention and John Hubbard took a fifteen foot tumble from the highest part of the Main Street incline, luckily landing in a soft marshy spot, with no damage done aside from scratches and bruises on his face and a scare for ye editor.

The Jubb boys last week finished the local haybaling and are moving their machinery elsewhere.

The successful revival services that have been conducted at the Viola church for the past week, will be continued during the present week. Rev. C. W. Pogue, the new minister is giving the best of satisfaction and his congregation are already heralding him as a second Billy Sunday.

The annual encampment of moss and fern gatherers is now in Viola, with three people making a business of gathering moss and fern roots for Portland and other florists.
