With the present growth of the prohibition movement in this and other states, the demand for non-intoxicating beverages is growing by leaps and bounds.

This is proving a boon to the grower of loganberries and other fruits suitable for manufacture into drinks and this community with its cannery, should profit by the continued culture of these small fruits, as a steady market is guaranteed for years with good contract prices being offered by the cannerymen.

Circuit Judge J. U. Campbell of Oregon City last week handed a hard jolt to an offender of the prohibition laws, when Julius Wilbur, proprietor of the Friars' Club of Milwaukie, was convicted of booze selling and sentenced to six months in the county jail and a fine of $300.

While Wilbur's attorneys are trying to clear their client on some legal technicality, it is likely said client will have plenty of time to meditate on the errors of his ways before his six months are up.

Editor Brodie of Oregon City, recently appointed a member of the State Prison Board, returned last week from an extended eastern trip, where he investigated the operation of penitentiaries in other states.

While in Toledo, Mr. Brodie carried on his investigations in an effort to determine the causes leading up to the downfall of the unfortunates, who later become inmates of the penitentiaries, and in a postal received by the editor, stated that his investigation were more than interesting.

If as Editor Brodie states that "idleness is the chief evil in prison management"—there would be little danger of fault finding with any penitentiary that E. E. had charge of, for the word idleness is not in his vocabulary.

Some complaint has been presented lately among the Estacada merchants against certain farmers, who either unknowingly or intentionally were selling eggs supposedly fresh, which had been preserved in water-glass or a lime solution.

As the selling of such treated eggs is contrary to the pure-food regulations, all parties are warned against such practice.

And now we learn that the Oregon City Woolen Mills, are contemplating doubling the size of their plant and as the Hawley Pulp & Paper Company are building new additions every few months, the future prosperity of Oregon City is assured.

The employees and pay rolls from those two plants alone, are sufficient to make a good sized city so why shouldn't Estacada land another infant industry, to blend its morning whistle with that of the cannery and the soon-to-be-we-hope cheese factory?

Estacada has the resources that attract industries, namely water, electric power and transportation but it lacks a little bit in "pep".

The News has many times been asked relative to the regulations governing the labeling and sale of dairy butter and is this week in receipt of the following extract from the Laws Relating to the Manufacture and the Sale of Food Products:

DAIRY BUTTER—Section 62—All dairy butter sold, or offered or exposed for sale, in rolls, prints or squares, shall have printed or stamped upon the wrapper the words, "dairy butter" and the name and address of the manufacturer and the net weight".

Here is an easy problem—If a committee of five from the "Live Wires" can go before the County Court and obtain a $3000. road appropriation, how much can a committee of eight from the Farmers & Merchants' Club obtain? Why—$4800. of course.

Githens Star Boarder Ousted

John Githens of Currinsville, who is always telling stories on himself, is this week telling one, with his wife as the victim.

According to John, Mrs. Githens, with her usual open-hearted generosity, agreed to furnish board and lodging for a couple of days to a tramp wood-splitter, who told a hard luck story one day recently.

The tramp, as he turned out to be, feasted, fed, glutted and generally so stuffed his stomach with the good things on the Githens' table, that he was found later in a serious condition, due to overloading with an unlimited amount of pork spare-ribs and other tempting meats, a stomach ordinarily used to meager fare.

John finally nursed their guest back to good health, then handed him half a dollar and a kick in the right place and last seen, the pseudo wood-splitter was hitting the tracks for Portland.
