

New Industry

For This Community

In an advertisement in this issue of the W. R. Reid Cereal Company, announcement is made of the commercial manufacture and sale of a new cereal beverage by W. R. Reid of Garfield.

Mr. Reid, for many years prior to his coming to Oregon was recognized as one of the leading millers and cereal authorities of Minnesota and since coming west has experimented with this beverage, which he has termed Nutrine.

Friends of Mr. Reid's have for the past two years urged him to place this delicious drink and health food on the market, but up to now he has manufactured it only for home consumption.

If success meets the efforts of Mr. Reid in this new health drink, it will mean the establishment of another productive industry for this community.

Mail Route Changes

On March 1st, there will be a change in the rural mail service from the Estacada office.

H. E. Wooster, will be transferred to Route No. 1; Abraham Demoy retiring.

Frank E. Kirk will assume the duties on Route No. 3, heretofore performed by H. E. Wooster.

Both carriers are familiar with their respective routes, and there should be no occasion for complaint after the first day.

Representative Stephens Returns

Hon. H. C. Stephens of George returned Tuesday evening from the 41 day session of the State Legislature and was welcomed at the farm gate by the lowing of the pedigreed Jersey kine, the cackling of the hens and approving grunts of the long neglected swine.

Mr. Stephens was truly glad to get back home and into his overalls and like old Israel Putnam returned again to his plow and if Mrs. Stephens has anything to say about it, will be a long time before Harold C. spends forty days and forty nights among the politicians again.

As soon as the political reporter of the News is able to interview Mr. Stephens, a more detailed account of his adventures will be published herewith.

Mrs. Alfred Jennsen of Glasgow, Montana is visiting at the home of her brother, D. E. Mc Connell of Currinsville.

Mr. J. P. Steinman of Currinsville was very pleasantly surprised last Sunday when a number of friends and relatives gathered at his home to help celebrate his 61st birthday, and all enjoyed a fine dinner prepared by his daughter Mrs. D. E. Mc Connell.

BLACK FRIDAYS.

First of These Financial Terrors Came in London in 1745.

Several of the great financial panics of the past have commenced on a Friday, and this has given rise to one of the pet superstitions of the stock exchanges and bourses of the world—that the sixth day of the week is fraught with ill omen for those engaged in financial operations.

The original "Black Friday" occurred Dec. 6, 1745, in London. On that date tidings reached the metropolis that the pretender, Bonnie Prince Charlie, had reached Derby with his forces. Londoners immediately made preparations to fly from the city, and a panic prevailed. It was on that occasion that the Bank of England had its closest call in its long history. The citizens were anxious to take their money with them, and the Bank of England was besieged by an army of depositors. The bank escaped bankruptcy only by the expedient of placing "dummies" in the line to impede genuine depositors and by paying bona fide depositors in small coins, thus consuming much time.

The first "Black Friday" of latter day financial history was in 1806 and was due to the failure of one of London's largest banking houses. Three years later Wall street had a "Black Friday," due to an attempt to engineer a corner in gold. The worst of all "Black Fridays" was that of 1873, when on Friday, Sept. 18, it seemed that the whole financial structure of the new world had crumbled into ruins.—Exchange.

Warning Before Command.

In bringing up my children I found that at night when they were tired they were spared many tears by being warned before I gave them a strict command. Instead of saying "Now it is time to go to bed. Put away your blocks at once," I would say: "It is nearly time to go to bed. Finish your house first and then put away your blocks." In this way the children were fully prepared to go, and there was consequently no begging and no temptation for me to show my lack of firmness by being persuaded to allow them to build "just one more house."

Imagine a mother in the midst of an absorbing chapter being told by one in higher authority to put down her book at once and go to bed. Would it not save a frown of impatience to be told to finish the chapter first?—Harper's Bazar.

Weeding Out Process.

"How are you getting along with your new efficiency expert?"

"Remarkably well," answered the head of a large business firm. "In fact we are still quite friendly, although he has discharged several members of my family."—Birmingham Age-Herald

The sympathy of all is extended to principal Guthrie of the Estacada Schools who Tuesday received word of the death of his mother, at the family home at York, N. Y.

C. W. Michaux and J. H. Jeffries of McMinnville, were Sunday visitors at the K. C. Hoygaard home at Faraday, returning in the evening with Mrs. Jeffries and sons.

Mrs. O. O. James of Faraday, has been making frequent trips to Portland of late to see her mother who is sick in the hospital.

The Currinsville Telephone Co. held a meeting February 14th at Ely's Hall and Albert Kitching was re-elected as President and J. K. Ely as Vice-President, Secretary - Treasurer. J. C. Kitching was elected as director for the next term.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lang of Portland were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Githens of Currinsville.

A Mummy's Doll.

Among the ancient objects exhibited in the British museum is a doll more than 3,000 years old. When some archaeologists were exploring an ancient Egyptian royal tomb they came upon a sarcophagus containing the mummy of a little princess seven years old. She was dressed and interred in a manner befitting her rank, and in her arms was found a little wooden doll.

The inscription gave the name, rank and age of the little girl and the date of her death, but it said nothing about the quaint little wooden Egyptian doll. This, however, told its own story. It was so tightly clasped in the arms of the mummy that it was evident that the child had died with her beloved doll in her arms.

Remarkable.

"One of the astronomers claims that he has charted 99,000 new worlds."

"By George, it's remarkable!"

"Not so very when you consider the fact that he has the use of the largest telescope in the world."

"I wasn't thinking of that. What I consider strange is that with so many other worlds in existence the lady who is acting as stepmother for my children had to light on this one."—Chicago Herald.
