Mr. and Mrs. J. Steel are at Latourell Falls, where they were called to aid in caring for their grandchildren, who are ill with measles.

A number of the local Stockholders of the Mt. Hood Creamery attended a recent special meeting of that organization.

The name of the organization was changed to The Sandy Creamery Company and the shares were reduced from $100. to $10 each.

Fred Anderson suffered the loss of a horse last week from the epidemic of colic, which is prevalent among the animals of this district.

As a result of the recent rivalry in obtaining new members for the Organized Young Peoples' Sunday School Class, the winning side, known as the "blue ribboners" will be treated to a fine supper next Friday evening, by the "white ribboners," the losers.

Rural Phone Lines To Cooperate On Improvements

At the meeting held in Eagle Creek last Monday, the members of the seven rural phone companies, with lines in Currinsville, Eagle Creek, UpperEagle Creek, Dover etc, decided to unite forces in the improvement of their main pole lines.

For this purpose a committee of two members from each company was appointed to meet at Ely's Hall in Currinsville next Friday afternoon, when a plan will be perfected for the erection of new poles extending from the Eagle Creek Grange Hall to the Estacada central station, the poles to accomodate the lines of the various companies.

Important Notice

In view of the fact that the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company will change from a 33-cycle to a 60-cycle service, on or about March 15, it is important that all those now using 33-cycle motors should notify the Company at once so that it may have an opportunity of changing this apparatus to 60-cycle apparatus before the date the new service is actually put into effect.

Fruit Growers Attention

The Oregon Agricultural College, through its Extension Department, has selected a block of the Wonacott and Krigbaum orchards in Garfield, for this year's spraying school.

This spraying school is the only one in the state this year and will be conducted by experts, under the direction of Prof. Brown, for the control of fungus diseases and insect pests of the apple.

All lectures and demonstrations are free and all interested parties are urged to be present.

The dates on which the demonstrations and lectures will occur will be duly advertised in the Eastern Clackamas News, but as these dates may be subject to change on short notice, owing to weather conditions, all parties desiring to be present, should at once advise A. M. Stephens of Garfield, so that he can send out additional telephone and post-card notices. This should be done at once, so that the O. A. C. may be notified of the number of local farmers who are interested in this important series of demonstrations.
