BOOSTING SPIRIT

Vol. 1 No. 24

May 17, 1917

Estacada, Or.

Editor's Dope

The sweetness of low price never equals the bitterness of low quality. Think of this when you open the mail order catalog next time.

You will find the present time a good one to buy sugar.

Prof. Fitts, our country agricultural agent, has recommended the following for planting during the next two weeks: peas, barley, small white beans or spuds. Small white beans were recommended especially as a good crop for planting at this late date. We can furnish you with any of the above seed immediately. It is not too late for fodder corn either. We have a supply of the Pearl Corn on hand.

Perhaps you wonder if there is any food that has not advanced in price. Peanut-butter still sells at the same price it always has, and you will find that it costs less than a third of what creamery butter does. It makes excellent soup, filler for cake, and for sandwiches needs no recommendation.

The Boosting Spirit this week received a letter from a reader who has used 800 pounds of land plaster on a sowing of clover but exhausted the supply before finishing the field. The plastered clover is now 13 inches high with leaves twice as large as the other which is now only 5 inches high, an argument in favor of land plaster that is convincing. And the fact that this successful rancher will treat the clover again indicates there is no danger of overdoing this sort of thing. Empire Land Plaster is $11 per ton as long as our present supply holds out.

We are glad to note that more of our readers saw the article on credits.

Locals

Tuesday morning at 8: A. M., the flag raising in the park was witnessed by a small group of interested spectators who had gathered for this military ceremony.

The "Top Sargent" of Company D was on board ship with Bert Page of Estacada while in the marines. They have enjoyed talking over old times together.

They have started work on the Cheese Factory. We are aware of that, because one of the stumps they blew out looked as though it was coming through our roof for a minute, but luckily dropped in the road.

Fred, this week, demonstrated his superiority as a driver by accepting a wager and driving an automobile over our front platform and down the steps. It was not a Maxwell car either.

We are selling oranges at 10c per dozen. And if you enjoy a sweet juicy orange, just try one.

The advertising manager had the pleasure of accepting an invitation for mess with Company D on the evening the ladies furnished pie. If the ladies could have been present, they would have been repaid by the compliments they received as pie making experts. The boys are competent judges too.

The base-ball game had to be postponed on account of the weather and since Saturday is the date set for the Eagle Creek Grange picnic, the game will probably be played next week some time.

Live Stock

Wednesday we shipped a car of live stock and hope to get another one together next week.

If you will advise us of what stock you have, we will call and see it.

Soya Bean Oil Meal

This is an oil meal, the equal of linseed meal in food value by actual laboratory test.

The chemical analysis is printed on the sack and the price is 50c less than linseed meal.

This is the kind of WEATHER we hope we're going to have.

Remember our 2% Cash Discount tickets are redeemable at any time.

We believe that a satisfied customer is the best advertisement.
