Small-pox And Car Shortage Hit McCurdy's

In a letter received this week from the J. R. McCurdy's of Scobey, Montana, who formerly resided in Estacada, it was learned that on their return home from their Oregon visit last winter, Jean, the seven year old daughter was taken ill with small-pox, but is now completely recovered.

To add to the general hard luck, it is likely Mr. McCurdy will have to shut down his prosperous lumber business, owing to the recent order passed by the railways, whereby after August 1st, cars will only be furnished in that section this year for the handling of foodstuffs, grain, etc.

The Dave Eschlemans and Al Lindseys, formerly of Estacada, but now at Scobey, are reported to be well, happy and prospering.

Many To Attend Chautauqua

Undoubtedly a larger number of people from this community will attend the 1917 session of the Gladstone Chautauqua, than ever before, as many are already making plans to camp on the grounds, with others contemplating regular daily auto trips to take in all of the entertainments and lectures on the program.

A perusal of the half-page advertisement of the Chautauqua, appearing elsewhere in this issue, is well worth anyone's time and will result in the reader so arranging his or her plans, so that he or she, or both, or the whole family, will arrange to spend at least a day at the Gladstone grounds this month.

The Chautauque opens July 10th and continues for thirteen days and with the new $6,600 auditorium now under construction, but to be completed on opening day, a treat is in store for all.

Oregon Exchanges

The first issue of a new monthly publication, issued and printed by the School of Journalism of the University of Oregon, called "Oregon Exchanges" was received at this office last week.

Oregon Exchanges is primarily devoted to the newspapermen of the state, but is good reading for the general public and as a specimen of first class printing, is a standing advertisement for that course of work, as taught at the U. of O.

D. K. McComb, wife and son of Stockton, Kansas are the guests for a couple of weeks at the J. A. McComb home in Springwater, as were Mr. and Mrs. L. Meriweather of Portland, who joined in the family reunion over the week-end.

Supreme Court Upholds Hedges

The reversal by the supreme court last week of the circuit court decision in the case of the appeal of the Weyerhaeuser Land Co. marked the close of a case that has been watched closely by the timber interests of the coast and is of the utmost importance to the taxpayers of Clackamas County.

The Weyerhaeuser interests asked for and were granted by Judge Campbell a reduction to $92,502. on their timber valuation, from the original $188,145 and the reversal of this decision, won by District Attorney Hedges and his assistant Tom Burke, means the saving of a large amount of taxes for this county.

Walker Heads Portland Bank

Leroy D. Walker, president of the Estacada State Bank, has recently assumed the cashiership of the newly organized State Bank of Portland, which was formerly the Scandinavian-American Bank.

The many friends of Mr. Walker here congratulate him upon this appointment to a high place in the state's banking circles and only hope that nothing will interfere with his continued presidency of the Estacada State Bank.

The case of the State of Oregon vs John Walczak of Barton will take place at 10 A. M. July 9th in Justice Devore's court in Estacada. This case is the outcome of a threat made by the defendant to commit a felony, with James Anderson of Barton as the complaining witness.
