BOOSTING SPIRIT

Vol. 1 No. 31

July 5, 1917

Estacada, Or.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT

Aside from the managing editors husky voice, we all came through the safe and sane fourth without any casualties.

Before the cow kicks over the milk pail - get a spray gun and a can of "fly knocker" - it will insure her comfort as well as your own.

That squeak you heard at twelve o'clock last Friday was the whistle on the new cheesery since then they have been so busy they have not had time to blow it.

We filled the pantry for a bride and groom, again this week.

This store is headquarters for bee supplies.

Next Wednesday will be stock day - we ship a carload on that date.

A boy came into a local confectory just before the fourth and offered to buy a pennys worth of caps if he could borrow a gun to shoot them in. Talk about a business head - "he was there".

We are not going to write any long editorial this week, on mail order houses or on why you should trade with us - but just a word on our prices. A travelling man last Saturday offered to buy all of our stock, of a certain household necessity at our retail price. The wholesale price today is greater than what you pay us for it. Ask us and we will tell you what this article is.
