Volunteers Build Road

Around Cheese Factory

For a few hours Wednesday, the Estacada Cheese Factory looked like the vortex of a monstrous merry-go-round in full whirl, but in place of the regulation wooden horses, chariots and cars, were teams, plows, scrapers and graders, each carrying its rider or driver and all having as good a time as a bunch of kids at a county fair.

At about 4 o'clock, when the merry-go-round had subsided, there remained a permanent, well graded roadway, leading from the end of Second street, by the front of the factory, around to the whey-tank and circling back again to the main road.

The work started about 9 o'clock with a plentiful supply of workers, too many bosses, a few merchants and one editor on hand. From time to time the ladders were kept moving by the dynamite blasting of stumps, but by noon the gang had completed the tearing down of the old lumber dock, which for years has been an eye-sore on the factory lot.

With the toots of the noon whistles at the cheese factory and cannery, all hands quit and a race was started for the park, where the wives, children and lunches were in waiting. Through the courtesy of the Estacada business men, coffee, sugar, cream and ice cream were served in abundance and the cheese factory donated a liberal supply of its toothsome product.

No attempt was made to hold any meeting or stage a program, for too much work needed attention, and as it was, the workers were unable to complete the cheese factory road and tackle the short stretch leading to the Estacada Cannery, which latter job should receive its share of donation work before long.

The attendance was a representative one, not only comprising the contributors of milk to the cheese factory, but including those many public spirited farmers, who never miss an opportunity to do their part in all community work.

An auto party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sparks, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. S. Gerber and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wooster of Estacada and Mr. and Mrs. Noel Sarver of Currinsville, is leaving Friday for a week's outing at the beach, near Pacific City.

Kids Need A Good Licking

The old saying about "boys will be boys" may be all right in some matters, but the boy or boys who Tuesday night, scratched into a newly laid cement sidewalk in front of Mrs. Evans' place in Estacada, a lot of profane and filthy words, deserve a first class licking.

It is bad enough for some of the rowdies to chalk up the fences and buildings with their swear words, but when it comes to indelibly scratching them into a cement walk, where the inscription will be perpetuated as long as though carved in granite, it is time the city marshal or the boys' parents took a hand in the matter.

Holland and Flowers.

It was only after the fall of Constantinople in 1453 that Holland became such a gay land of flowers as it now is. Many Dutchmen went to the east during the years of the great crusades, and those of them who loved beautiful things brought many home again with them. Not only did they carry away with them silks and embroideries, jewels, spices and fruits, but in the bottoms of their ships they brought seeds. When these seeds were planted in the rich soil of Holland such wondrous flowers appeared as had never before been seen in that northern country. The people became wildly enthusiastic over the new colors and scents and foliage brought to them from the east, and in Holland there sprang up a great love for gardening.

Origin of the Jury System.

A jury is a body of laymen summoned and sworn to ascertain the truth as to facts raised in legal proceedings. The jury system of the United States developed from that of England. This in turn had its origin in Frankish inquest, which was translated into England by Norman kings. In these inquests a body of neighbors was summoned by a public officer to give answer upon oath on some question of fact or law or of mixed fact and law. In the beginning the object of the inquiry was usually to obtain information for the king to ascertain facts needed for assessing taxes.

Couldn't Stand Defeat.

Dr. Grenfell tells an amusing story of the introduction of football in Labrador, when defeat was considered so unendurable a mortification that it had to be mutually agreed beforehand that neither side should win. "We saw," he says, "the unusual spectacle of the side that had been scored against solemnly allowed to walk across the field and kick a goal to save them the feeling of being beaten."

Wonderful Memories.

Michelangelo had on his lips the greater part of the poetry of Dante and Petrarch, and Galilei could repeat most of Ariosto, Petrarch and Beral. Justus Lipsius knew Tacitus by heart and could repeat any passage called for. Locke states that Pascal knew the whole of the Bible by heart. Leibnitz, even in old age, could repeat nearly all the poetry of Vergil, word for word. Saunderson knew by heart Horace's odes, Cicero's "Offices" and a large part of Juvenal and Persius. Forson, the great English scholar, declared that he could repeat "Roderick Random" from beginning to end.
