If a nice, prosperous appearing man calls at your office these days, or drapes himself over your farm gate, handing out smiles, glad-hands, compliments and sometimes cigars—

If said man tells you about what a fine business or farm you have; what bright children you are rearing; how intelligent and prosperous you look and what lovely weather we are having—

Also if he tells you that he wept for days after the defeat of the Cascade County movement; that his heart bled for the poor oppressed taxpayers of Eastern Clackamas County—

That he personally is an enemy of such and such an old time political enemy of the proposed Cascade County; that he was born and raised on a farm in Clackamas County and apologizes for having to make his home at Oregon City, only wishing he could live in Eastern Clackamas—

LOOK OUT—for it is possible that man is a politician and looking for your vote and a county job, as the bi-annual crop of these gentlemen is now migrating through this section, handing out their photographed cards.

They are all good fellows and we like 'em, but we don't always believe everything they say.

There is one promising aspect of the coming primaries and that is the entry into the race for offices of a number of young men, men who are not and never have been office seekers, but who have made enviable records for themselves in other lines of endeavor.

Whether these men will make as good officers as some of the more experienced deputies, who are now signifying their willingness to accept their bosses jobs, remains to be seen.

In looking over the Delinquent Tax List for this county, now being advertised in the county seat papers, it is noted that but a very small proportion of the delinquent taxes in this part of the county is on farm lands, the majority being Estacada city lots, with the majority of those being owned by non-residents.

There will be four new stars added to the school service flag, as four more former members of the E. H. S. Student Body have joined the colors, being: Robert Morton, Harry Sherman, Joseph Demoy and Adolph Still.

Miss Grace Vancuren was a Grange visitor Saturday.
