That Cascade County will again become a live issue in this county this year, may not have been generally known, although all know that the Cascade County movement will always be a live issue until Cascade County is formed.

In as much as Senator Dimick is making his campaign for reelection on the platform of "Clackamas Undivided", believing that his return to the legislature is necessary to champion that cause, the News has announced this week that the question of county division will be left to a vote of the people of Clackamas County, thereby removing much of the responsibilities from Mr. Dimick's shoulders.

We note that Mr. Brownell apparently is better posted on the plans and interests of the county at large, as in his platform he mentions that the question will be left to a vote of the people and that he will abide by that vote.

The News has been asked—"Why devote so much space to the subject of Terminal Rates for Estacada?"

Our reason is that we believe the obtaining of such equitable shipping rates, is really the keynote to the development of our timber resources.

These Terminal Rates can only be obtained by a demand being made upon the Interstate Commerce Commission by the general public and the shippers, so the public has first to be informed on the subject. And as we all know, anything that will stimulate the location of industries in our midst and develop our resources, directly benefits every man, woman and child in this community.

In the Oregon City Enterprise of March 22nd, appears the following paragraph, being the termination of the article dealing with the candidacy of Senator Dimick:—

Words to be placed on ballot: Support anything to help America win the war; am against county division; del check n forsaan-? nesragbuino

We are curious to know the meaning of the last line, for it looks like a code message or a suppressed oath and should be deleted by censor before appearing on the ballot.

Again it is barely possible this last line was a typographical error, but it is more than likely the overworked linotype operator managed to get that far through the Dimick platform and then collapsed at the machine, forgetting to turn off the works. Poor fellow, we know how hard it is to be forced to set-up such political dope.

Clackamas County has the distinction, according to assistant County Agent Leader, W. L. Kadderly of the O. A. C. Extension Department, of being the only county in the state which today has not completed a farm survey for the coming season.

Such a survey is now being undertaken through the mails by Mr. Kadderly and it is hoped every farmer will respond to the appeal and give the small amount of time necessary to fill out the form-sheets and return them to headquarters in the "franked" envelope which will be furnished.

Local people have been looking for the past week for a glimpse of the Dimick political placards, which it was heralded were now being distributed throughout the county.

Latest reports indicate the presence of but one in Eastern Clackamas so far, that being reported by his neighbors as decorating the side of Noah Stingley's barn at Eagle Creek.

The side of Mr. Stingley's barn is a most appropriate place for the advertising of Mr. Dimick's candidacy, for Mr. Stingley represents about the only true adherent of the "Clackamas Undivided" principal in this portion of the county, Mr. Stingley having always been a staunch supporter of the "court-house ring" management of the county and having for several years held the responsible position of Judge of the Horse-Racing at the Canby Fair.

Noah's selection of the side of his barn for the display of the advertising is an admirable one, although if we were supporters of Mr. Dimick's candidacy; we would post his placard on our front gate or hang it in the front window and not consign it to a place usually reserved for rubbish or other unsightly material.

SHOE SHINING

If your shoes need polishing, call at the Estacada Barber Shop.

I am on the job all day Saturday and after school hours on week days. Ladies' work especially solicited. Leave shoes at the shop and I will do the rest. All shines 10 cents. JOEL B. BOWMAN.

Miss Lorene Parker, Clackamas County's Demonstration Agent, will be the principle speaker at the April 6th meeting of the Garfield Grange. All members and friends are invited to attend, as Miss Parker is especially desirous of meeting all of the ladies and her message to them at this time is an important one.

Miss Bertha Hillman of Estacada was the hostess at a house-party over the week-end, in honor of her birthday, her guests being the Misses Arlene and Mildred Jones of Amity; Alta Nash of Salem and Alice Wright of Portland.

No Sunday School or church services will be held at the Garfield Church next Sunday, as the attendants there are planning to attend the Easter services at the parent church in Estacada.
