It is a new invention and does away with the breaking of sickle bars and bolts.

It can be put on and taken off in a few seconds and works as well on a binder as on a mower.

Throw your old Pitman away and get a new one and you will save the price many times over, the first season.

Come in and see it for yourself.

Notice To Chautauqua Folk

The Chautauqua programs have been mailed to every family in Clackamas County.

They give complete information concerning the Chautauqua and there is but one thing else that might be emphasized:

If you want to enjoy Chautauqua at the same old price, buy your season ticket now. Under the book ticket plan, season tickets may be secured up to the night of July 7th for $2.00 each.

The book ticket plan is yours to take advantage of. The association does not—and cannot handle books. We simply put a premium of 50 cents on initiative. Get together with nine of your neighbors, take $2.00 from each, and add $2.00 of your own. Send the $20.00 to E. G. Caufield of the Bank of Oregon City and the tickets will be issued up to July 7th. After that date it's straight $2.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ahlberg of Estacada this week broke up housekeeping and Wednesday left for Portland, where Mrs. Ahlberg will make her home with her mother, Mrs. Mary Adams, while Mr. Ahlberg is in military service. The Norris brothers of Estacada seem to be the only real anglers in this community, having lately landed on hook and line four or five Chinook salmon, weighing from 30 to 45 pounds each, being taken from the Clackamas River near River Mill.
