Fast Baseball Game On Estacada Grounds Sunday

A feature of the big picnic of the Supple & Ballin employes in Estacada on Sunday, will be a baseball game in the afternoon on the Estacada grounds, between the Supple & Ballin team and the Peninsulas of Portland.

No admission will be charged spectators and a good game is promised as the best amateur players in Portland are now in the shipbuilders' league.

The twenty local women who have enrolled for training in "first-aid Red Cross nursing" had their first lesson Wednesday evening at the C. I. C. rooms, with Dr. H. V. Adix as an instructor.

Municipal Markets.

One thing in which Baltimore is a pioneer is its system of municipal markets. In 1751, when there were only twenty-five houses in what was then known as Baltimore Town, a public market was established and by the time the city was incorporated in 1796 three such markets had already been established within its corporate limits. Today eleven municipal markets, all owned by the city, are within easy reach of 700,000 people of Baltimore and vicinity. "Going to market" is a localism in Baltimore, and the thrifty Baltimore housewife learned when a little girl that it pays to take a market basket to one of the public markets at least twice a week, particularly on Saturday and get fresh country produce, without the middleman's handling and profit, at considerably less than at the corner grocery stores.—Exchange

He Knew Him.

In his book, "Winnowed Memories," Sir Evelyn Wood relates how he once met a quiet American gentleman in England, and they began to talk of American poetry. Sir Evelyn mentioned the well known poem, "Jim Bludso," which he highly eulogized.

"My enthusiastic praise of the poem excited, I thought, an appreciative purr in my companion, but he remarked quietly:

"Jim was a fine fellow."

"I said, 'Or the author made him so?'"

"Oh, but he was!"

"Why, was he real?"

"Yes - I knew him well."

"But don't you think that the poet embellished Jim's act?"

"No, I am sure he did not."

"Well, but how can you be sure?"

"And he replied quickly, 'I wrote it.'"

The gentleman to whom Sir Evelyn was speaking proved to be Colonel John Hay, author of the "Pike County Ballads," who was then the United States ambassador in London.

"Kays Pitman" Rod

It is a new invention and does away with the breaking of sickle bars and bolts.

It can be put on and taken off in a few seconds and works as well on a binder as on a mower.

Throw your old Pitman away and get a new one and you will save the price many times over, the first season.

Come in and see it for yourself.

I wish to inform the many patrons of the Cascade Garage that I have lately acquired the entire ownership of the business, have purchased the interests of my associate John C. Peterson.

This change in ownership will in no ways effect the conduct of the business and the same courteous treatment, expert workmanship and prompt service, which has always characterized this garage, will continue.
