SPRINGWATER MOURNS DEATH OF MRS. WALLENS

Death Occurs in Portland Wednesday, Funeral in Springwater Friday

The happiness which but a few days before had come to Dr. William Wallens of Springwater, with the birth of a first child July 25, was last week turned to deepest grief and sorrow, for the beloved mother had sacrificed her life for her baby daughter.

Mrs. Wallens had been taken to St. Vincent's hospital in Portland where her child was born. Up to the Tuesday following, the mother was recuperating rapidly, when a change for the worse began, ending in her death Wednesday, July 31st.

On Friday last, at the Springwater Presbyterian Church, with Rev. R. A. Weld officiating, impressive funeral services were conducted in the presence of many sorrowing friends and relatives.

The interment, which was in charge of undertaker Chapman of Estacada occurred at the nearby Springwater cemetery, where floral tokens in abundance were strewn upon the grave.

The deceased is survived by her infant daughter, the latter now being cared for by Mrs. Wallen's sister in Portland.

Mrs. Nettie J. Wallens who was in her fortieth year, was the daughter of a pioneer Springwater family and up to the time of her death had resided many years in that community, where she had a host of loyal friends and where she had always taken a direct interest in all community and religious activities.

Federal Aid Refused For Local Dam Work

After months of hard work and anxiety on the part of the officials of the P. R. L. & P. Co., in an effort to obtain financial aid from the government in the building of the new dam and power plant near the South Fork, word was received last week that no federal help would be forthcoming this year.

This has proved a keen disappointment to the railway people and the local public, for the need of additional electrical power for Portland manufacturing is urgent and the business stimulus that such work would give to this locality was hoped for.

Supt. Frank Ewing and crew last week stopped the preliminary work on which they have been employed for the past few months and until the government changes its attitude towards this important project, no further construction work will be done.

NEW OWNER ARRIVES TO TAKE OVER LOCAL PAPER

Citizens of La Grande Congratulate Estacada On Getting Valued Citizen

Rev. Upton H. Gibbs of La Grande, (who from now on will drop the ministerial title) arrived in Estacada Tuesday noon and is now busily engaged in familiarizing himself with the details of the publishing of the Eastern Clackamas News, which publication he purchased last month and of which he will assume the control within a short time.

Mr. Gibbs is already getting acquainted with the townspeople and possibly for business reasons is ingratiating himself with the merchants, all of whom are extending to him a cordial welcome.

"Ye new editor's" wife, who we are informed is one of his main assets, is not expected here until next week, by which time Mr. Gibbs hopes to have his house in order and a few new subscription accounts paid in.

A perusal of the columns of the La Grande, (Or.) Observer of last week discloses the fact that Mr. Gibbs' removal from that city was deeply regretted by his fellow townspeople, who feted, farewelled and passed resolutions for him. The following excerpt from the Resolutions of Confidence passed by the Ministerial Association of La Grande, were read at a luncheon given at the Sommer hotel in his honor and were printed in the Observer:

"Whereas: The Rev. Upton H. Gibbs is about to sever his long and distinguished pastorate of St. Peter's Church of our city;

"Whereas: This pastorate of nearly fourteen years, as a result of most faithful labors, excellent scholarship and sterling Christian character, has made a profound impression upon both church and city, consequently calling forth many expressions of deep regret that he has deemed it expedient to go elsewhere to engage in another calling;

"We hereby express in formal resolution, our high appreciation of his fine personality and distinguished services, wishing him God speed and great success in his new undertaking.

"And we also take great pleasure in congratulating the city of Estacada, his future residence and field of endeavor, assuring the people there that with his
