Don't Throw Away Your Worn Tires. Our vulcanizing department has been enlarged and now occupies double its former space!

Is now in charge of Joe Pesznecker, who is one of the most expert vulcanizers in the state. Don't accept your own judgement on whether a tire is worthless, let Joe look it over and he will advise you right. If it cannot be vulcanized and made to wear many miles longer, he will tell you and if it can be repaired, he's the man that can do it and do it right.

Joe has taken over the entire Tire Sales and Tire Repair business of this Garage and it will be an economy to consult him when in need of New or Repaired Tires or Tubes.

Prunes Suffer Damage

A peculiar prune trouble thought by many growers to be brown rot but not related to it in anyway, is reported to H. P. Barss, plant pathologist at O. A. C., from prune districts throughout Oregon. The trouble, thinks Prof. Barss, is due the severe and prolonged drought followed by the rains of late July. The change from dry to moist conditions probably induced changes in the fruit which brought on structural and physiological breaking down in the flesh. No brown rot is visible so far this year, and although many prunes will be lost from the injury reported it is still true that many still unaffected may mature in fair shape, as the trouble is not contagious or infectious.

The German Crown Prince can console himself with the thought that he is leading the American boys on to Berlin. At least they are keeping close behind him.

No man, it is said, is a hero to his valet, and seldom to his dentist. According to Dr. Davis, the Crown Prince was far from heroic in the dental chair. How would he act if he got into close touch with the business end of an American bayonet? He would probably break all sprinting records.
