

SCHOOL NEWS

We hope to have some of the Washington walnuts that O. M. Plummer is sending out for planting on the school grounds next Friday. If we do, tree planting will have a part in our program for that.

Several teachers were in Portland over the week-end to hear some of the famous lecturers who were there in the interests of the League of Enforce Peace. Those attending were Miss Dillon, Miss Morrison, Mrs. Signs, Mr. Staughan, and Miss McNight.

Robt. Ewalt and Milton Evans, alumni of the E. H. S. visited the school Friday. Both these young men have been over seas and in their remarks to the students both expressed their remarks to the students both expressed their pleasure at being home again, their interest in the welfare of the school and the hope that with the increasing opportunities the school would maintain its place among the progressive schools of the state.

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association met Wednesday night at the high school. The decoration of the school grounds including grading, leveling, seeding, and the landscape gardening necessary to make them attractive was the principal topic of discussion. As an entertainment feature, films of water power development, and slides showing Oregon birds were shown.

All the high school activities are now thoroughly organized for the spring semester. The student body officers are Clarence Anderson, Pres.; Loretta Smith, Sec'y; Homer Sarver, Treas.; Perry Murphy, Sgt.-at-Arms; Elma Graham, Yell Leader. The Websterian Literary Society, Ruth Saling, Pres.; Albert Lins, Vice-Pres.; Esther Anderson, Sec.-Treas. Adolphic Literary Society, Elma Graham, Pres.; Ernest Smith, Vice-Pres.; Maye Lovell, Sec'y; Grace Cahill, Yell Leader.

The organization of the Smith-Hughes work in agriculture is rapidly taking form and will be similar to that established at Gresham, Hood River and Enterprise. The work will include a full four year course in agriculture with special emphasis on the practical work. The equipment includes grounds for a school garden, growing library facilities where innumerable bulletins as well as special reference volumes are available, a movie machine equipped for slides and films, outdoor and indoor laboratories, Babcock tester, butter worker, seed testers, surveying for drainage problems, etc. O. L. Straughan of the U. of O. is instructor, and a class of about 20 will take the work this spring.

A large audience met in the High School auditorium last night the occasion being a lecture by Prof. Crockatt, of the Department of Economics of the University of Oregon on the topic of Industrial Reconstruction. Prof. Crockatt discussed the three great industrial problems now before the American people for consideration and for which some definite policy must be established with as much speed as consistent with satisfactory solution, viz., The Merchant Marine the railroads and labor. The speaker's broad grasp of these questions, his training and experience, together with a fine stage presence, made it possible for him to "put over" such a clear outline of these problems and to drive home many suggestions as to individual and community methods of assisting in the final development of public opinion so that much of the friction of reconstruction will be forestalled and overcome through "preparedness."

Cheese Factory Association

At a meeting of the Co-operative Cheese Association last Saturday, the following officers and directors were elected: President, Barney Schonberg, Vice-president, A. W. Botkin, Sec'y-Treas. Geo. Lawrence, directors and officers R. H. Currin, J. C. Duus, C. R. Lovell, J. A. Randolph.
