Ed. Boner returned Friday morning from Minnesota, where he had been called to St. Cloud last month, on account of the death of an aunt. Apart from this event, he enjoyed his visit to his former home, meeting old friends and renewing acquaintances. January was the most remarkable one in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, the thermometer seldom sinking to zero, and with little snow on the ground. Before he returned however, he had a taste of the regular Minnesota winter weather, when the mercury fell to 24 below.
