Postmaster and Mrs. W. A. Heylman have recently received letters from their son, Major W. H. Heylman, stating that he cannot yet say when he will return home. At the special request of his commanding officer, he received orders from Washington, to stay as a member of the American forces in France, as the remaining ones are now called. He has been placed in charge of a prison camp, whence the German war prisoners are being repatriated. He wrote that about 48,000 would pass thru in the next twenty days. After this work is concluded, he will go to Chaumont, the former general headquarters of the American army. His chief tells him he will keep him until everything is cleaned up. Report goes that as a reward he will receive three ribbons and a star. He did not explain, but it may be inferred that this means promotion. If so, it must be to brigadier-general, for no rank below this carries a star.

For our depositors Convenience

And on account of our rapid increase in business, we have installed a Ledger posting machine to assist us in our book-keeping department. This change will do away with the balancing of pass-books, as they will be used only for the purpose of receipting for the deposits as made. Beginning with October 1st, statements will be furnished when the cancelled checks are returned to the depositor. It is requested that pass-books be brought in at this time for balancing up to October 1st.
