

Value and Methods of Using Home Paper

A short course on using the home paper to sell surplus farm produce will be offered farmers attending farmers week at the O. A. C. college, Dec. 29-Jan. 3, by C. J. McIntosh, farmer, farm writer and ex-newspaper man.

"I have known farmers to pay a local commission man $50 to sell 100 tons of alfalfa at $20 a ton, when they could have sold it by paying the editor a dollar," said Mr. McIntosh in announcing the course. "They could then have kept the extra $49, credited it to the buyer or split it with him. I asked why not advertise and sell direct, and they said, 'Why, I never thought of it.'"

"Not only the advantage but the method of using the home paper will be considered. The success of the advertisement depends on the facts selected for announcement, the form in which they are stated and the reputation of the advertiser. All of these—except the last—will be explained and so far as possible demonstrated."

In these days of high cost of everything in the printing line, an editor can not afford to carry a long list of delinquent subscribers, although he will gladly do so a reasonable time.
