GEORGE PEOPLE ENTERTAIN E. C. C.

"Let George do it," is a proverbial saying, the advisability of which was confirmed last Friday evening when the Community Club was entertained at the George Club Hall. In spite of the inclement weather, a good sized gathering assembled, among which Estacada was well represented. As it was Hallowe'en the hall was decorated appropriately and the proceedings began with a ghostly seance which was truly hair raising. White shrouded ghosts looking like members of the Klu-Klux clan, appeared on the stage surrounding a caldron, in which they stirred a mysterious brew. As we did not sample it, we can not say whether it violated the prohibition law or not, but no doubt it was a spirit concoction. After they had departed, President Stephens called the meeting to order for a discussion of the road bond issue to be voted on Nov. 24. The first speaker was the Rev. Carl J. Renhard of Colton, who in a humorous address, showed the advantages which will accrue from a system of paved roads, even to people who are not directly on them. He was followed by Atty. Chris Schuebel of Oregon City, who explained how the proposed issue had been hedged about by safeguards which will eliminate the profits usually going to paving companies on this sort of work and the Warren paving company in particular. The issue provides that the county shall furnish the material for the roads and the contractor only the labor.

There were only these two speakers and after they were through, Hallowe'en games and dancing were enjoyed, while the George ladies served dainty refreshments. Everyone enjoyed themselves and felt repaid for braving the elements.

The next meeting will be in Estacada Nov. 28, when the fate of the road bond issue will be known. Whether it will be a jubilant or mournful affair will depend on the action of the voters on the Monday previous.

SCHOOL NOTES

A Websterian program consisting of music, readings and a basket social will be given Wednesday evening, Nov. 12. Admission will be 15c. Bring your baskets and join in the fun.

Marion Tucker reentered school again as a Sophomore.

The Freshmen entertained the Sophomore class last Tuesday night and as far as we know all had a good time.

A challenge for a football game to be played at the end of the season, was given by the Junior and Freshmen classes and was formerly accepted by the Senior and Sophomore classes.

Here's news! Gov. Olcott has declared November 11th, Armistice day, a legal holiday. Remember we are planning a game with Hood River High School that day and will expect the whole town to journey up there with us and have some fun. Bring your voice along and help make all the noise you can, as our far famed yell leader, The Honorable Lydia Matson, will be there to lead the racket. On, La, La!

Pear Trees in Blossom

A peculiar freak of what nature can do was demonstrated at the J. W. Hughes farm in Currinsville, where there is a nice pear orchard. The fruit was not very plentiful this year and the leaves all dropped off early. A short time ago, new leaves appeared and now the trees are full of white bloom again, thicker even than in the spring. It is too bad that Jack Frost could not have stayed away so that Mr. and Mrs. Hughes might have had a second crop of this most delicious fruit.

Christian Church

There will be services conducted in this church, by the Rev. Edward Wright of Portland, on Sunday, at 11 a. m. and at 7 p. m. instead of 7:30. Sunday School is at 10 a. m.

Well Known Firm Sells Out

Messrs. Lee Bronson, Milton Evans and Harry Reid have sold out the Estacada Feed Co. and its branch store at Viola to Morgan Bros., who take possession as soon as the business formalities are completed. The former owners have not decided yet on their plans for the future, but we hope they will remain here to take advantage of the coming wave of prosperity, especially as they have proved themselves to be men of keen business ability. The News thanks them for their generous patronage of its advertising columns, which it believes proved remunerative to them. The new owners are both well known here and will no doubt carry on the business most satisfactorily to all concerned. To both old and new firms the News wishes abundant future success.

Hallowe'en Party

The Hallowe'en masquerade party given by the Misses Helen and Audrey Miller last Friday night at the hotel, was a very enjoyable affair for the young people. There were quite a number masked and the evening was spent in playing games. Mr. and Mrs. Miller, parents of the young ladies, were there to help entertain and they served nice refreshments before the festivities came to an end.

Stork Deliveries

October 15, to Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Hauser of Estacada, a nine pound girl, Louise Mary.

October 23, to Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Bristow of Estacada, a boy, Walter Sewell Jr.

Per Dr. R. Morse.

Red Cross Fund

The Lord loveth a cheerful giver, especially to such objects as the Red Cross. Have you given your dollar to its representative? If not, get it ready.

Are You Registered?

Mrs. E. W. Bartlett will be at the office of E. W. Bartlett Monday afternoon, for the purpose of registering those voters who have not yet been enrolled.

HUNTERS RETURN WITH TWO DEER

Drs. L. A. Wells and R. G. McCall returned Saturday night from a week's hunting trip in the pea vine mountain country. Each doctor was successful in getting a deer, altho the hunting was difficult on account of the the stormy weather and deep snow. On the return trip, they were treated to some extra bluff climbing on account of the high water over the trail above the South Fork. Dr. Wells says the miles up in that country are the longest of any, he has ever traveled, and that the romance of deer hunting ends immediately after the deer is killed.

Important Real Estate Deal

The building in which the Wooster agency has its office as well as the adjoining one now occupied by the McWillis grocery, have been acquired by J. W. Reed who now owns 90 feet front at that corner of Broadway. It is his intention to put up a fire proof block, which will be an ornament to the city. Mr. Reed evidently has faith in Estacada's future, otherwise he would not be making these plans, and as he is a shrewd business man, he is not likely to be mistaken. All the indications point to a big business wave coming this way next spring, if not before.

Chevrolet's Arrive

The Cascade Garage has just received a car load of Chevrolet's, which no doubt will go like hot cakes owing to their popularity. If you want to know the reason why, ask the man who drives one. The price is only $857.00. This firm also expects shortly a car load of Cnandlers, which are higher priced than the Chevrolet's. Mayor Bartlett recently purchased one and introduced it to this neighborhood. He is loud in its praises and its looks speak for themselves. We are glad to note these signs of prosperity of this deservedly popular firm.
