JOINT INSTALLATION IN I. O. O. F. HALL

The Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges arranged for a joint installation of officers last Saturday night. This was the first time a joint installation has been by these lodges, and the affair proved very successful. The installing officers were Hugh Jones and Mrs. Amy Ely. The ritual was rendered smoothly as all knew their parts, and the marching was excellent. After the ceremonies were concluded, a banquet was served of over a hundred plates, by the Misses Bates, restaurateurs. The officers installed were:

Herbert Dunlop Improving

Herbert, the son of the Rev. J. F. Dunlop, was taken with pneumonia last Thursday and has been a very sick boy. For a few days his condition was critical, but we are glad to report that he is now on the mend and if no reaction sets in, he will soon be convalescent.

Governor Olcott is having a merry time slashing bills passed by the legislature, with his little veto hatchet.

Former Resident Dies

Mrs. John E. Schenk who lived in Springwater, a number of years and more recently in town, died Saturday in Upland, Calif., where she had gone with her husband last summer, for the benefit of her health. The cause of her death was acute asthma. She as well as her husband, was a native of Switzerland, coming to this country and settling in Wisconsin, when she was about sixteen years old. She lived in that state until nine years ago, when her husband moved to Springwater. She leaves six children, four daughters and two sons, Florence, Adele, Frieda, Emma, John and Eddie. The last named daughter Emma, who is the wife of Gordon M. Lawrence of Springwater, left for Upland, to attend her mother's funeral. The sympathy of many friends here, goes out to the bereaved family.

Community Club Speaker

H. W. Morgan, the secretary of the Sellwood board of trade, will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the Community Club on Friday, Jan. 30th. He will tell of his experience in establishing a flourishing business of $25,000 per year, in five years, on only a capital of $1,200. This should appeal especially to our business men, a large attendance of whom it is desired especially to secure.

Surprise Party

Refreshments were served and all wished Helen many more happy birthdays. Those present were, Elsie Deardorff, Helen Miller, Minerva Page, Albert Hannah, Albert Lichthorn, Elmer Hannah, Ralph Markwart, Dorris Finch, Naoma Paddison, Irene Saling, Raymond Lovelace, Esther Anderson, Violet Starr, Mary Ely, Mildred Douglass, Lydia Mattson.

A Comfortable Hostelry

In these days of mammoth and over ornate hotels, no doubt many travelers who recall former days, regret the passing of the old tavern or inn. There was an atmosphere about it, which the present up-to-date hotel lacks, in spite of all its numerous conveniences and able service. In Portland there is an hotel of moderate size and plain exterior which suggests comfort and a homelike atmosphere. This is the Oregon Hotel on the corner of Stark and Broadway. The country traveler on entering its hospitable doors does not feel lost or bewildered. The lobby is inviting in appearance with plenty of capacious easy chairs, into which the tired guest sinks with an assurance of rest. An obliging clerk at the desk is on the alert to look after his requirements and give him all necessary information. He finds he can get a comfortable room to suit his purse. A fine grille provides most adequately for the wants of the inner man. And when his stay is concluded, he leaves with the determination to stop there on his return.

Oregon Growers Cooperative Association

January first found it past the 15,000 acre mark, and the organization at the present time is growing more rapidly than at any time in its history. The organization is signing prunes at the present time at the rate of more than 2000 acres a month, and in addition has taken in a large acreage of walnuts, cherries, berries, apples, and pears.

Mr. Earl Percy, who has been associated with the organization from its start, has resigned to take active management of a large fruit farm near Forest Grove. Mr. M. O. Evans, recently with Swift & Company, and known to fruit growers and farmers of the State as Assistant State Leader of Extension for the Oregon Agricultural College, has been secured as the new field manager, and will begin his activities and assume his duties on the 19th of January.

PARENTS TO MEET WITH TEACHERS

A Parent-Teacher meeting will be held in the high school building tomorrow, Friday, afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. This will be a most important as well as interesting occasion. "Farmer" C. L. Smith of Portland, will make an address after which the association will elect new officers and adopt a comprehensive plan of work for the balance of the year.

Tea will be served to the fathers and mothers by the young ladies of the cooking class. Parents and all others interested in the welfare of our schools, are requested to attend.

F. E. Burns, Principal.
