Till Further Notice!

Nothing will pay farmers better during the next few years than to raise their calves. The high prices of live stock have marketed an unusual large number and even milch cows have been sacrificed to take advantage of prevailing prices.

The farmer who raises his calves to replace the shortage, will profit greatly by his foresight, as prices will rule high for a long time to come.

Thanks.

Fred C. Bartholomew.

Notice to Subscribers

It is becoming more and more expensive to publish a paper. Our bills for paper and other expenses have to be met promptly. We expect prompt payment likewise on part of those owing us, as we are dependent on the receipts to meet our bills. There is a large number of subscriptions over due. We shall be grateful if those who are behind will please settle at once as we need the money.

The rain inundated the portion of Main Street south of the post-office. We saw a small boy in rubber boots Monday morning, gleefully wading around in water almost reaching to his boot tops. Something should be done to drain this corner.

J. K. Peterson returned last week from Everett, Wash., where he had been attending the trial of the two murderers of his son-in-law. The crime was committed last December and their victim the owner of a taxi whom they had engaged to take them to a store they had planned to rob, and in order to get rid of him, they shot him. The trial resulted in their conviction, one of them being sentenced to be hung, while the other was sent up for life.

A Marquis of

Queensberry Stunt

Two young from Currinsville, broke the peace and upset the dignity of the city of Estacada, last Monday afternoon, by engaging in a bout of fisticuffs without gloves. The town marshall was unfortunately absent, so two or three rounds were fought before the contestants separated. Since the saloons went out of business such occurrences have been rare. They are extremely trying to our peace loving citizens and in future we hope they will be kept outside city limits.

"Battling Jane" is a

Splendid Picture

Dorothy Gisn's first Paramount starring vehicle, "Battling Jane," which will be shown at the Family Theatre next Saturday night, is said to be one of the finest photoplays issued anywhere in many months. That it affords Miss Gish a role of wondrous appeal is conceded by all who have seen the production.

Miss Gish appears as Jane, a nomad who rides into a town in Maine out of nowhere on a bicycle while a Thrift Stamp drive is under way and who meets with most unusual adventures. She befriends a woman whose husband has deserted her and when the woman dies, she takes charge of the latter's child which is found by Jane in the deserted home. This babe wins first prize at a baby show and when the inhuman father returns to claim the money, Jane gives him a real battle and wins out in the end.

Miss Gish is finely supported by a picked company, including George Nicholls, May Hall, Katherine MacDonald, Ernest Marion, Bertram Grasby, Raimond Cannon, Adolph Lestine and Kate Toncray. Elmer Clifton was the director.

The children of Albert Hirleman, have been sick with acute bronchitis.
