Essex Sets New World's Mark

Essex holds the world's official long distance endurance mark. A stock chassis made 3,037 miles in fifty hours in a test under A. A. A. observation on the Cincinnati Speedway. Though the test was equal to years of hardest road usage, the car showed no signs of wear.

An Essex stock car set the world's road mark of 1,061 miles in 24 hours, over rough Iowa roads and through a blizzard. Not a single adjustment was made.

And Essex also has set a world's sales record. Over 22,000 critical motorists paid more than $35,000,000 for Essex cars in a year. That shows how Essex beauty, performance, endurance and economy and moderate price are appreciated.

When shall we give you a demonstration?
