HOOVER AHEAD IN STRAW VOTE

The Community club held its regular meeting last Friday night, at the Hotel Estacada. The lobby was filled so that the S. R. O. sign was almost necessary. President Stephens called the meeting to order and proceedings began with an overture by the girls' jazz band. This is a new feature and proved very taking. The band's instruments consist of mouth organs manufactured from combs and tissue paper, dishpans used as drums, tin whistles and piano. The girls were heartily encored. After the minutes were read and other musical selections and reports made, the speaker of the evening was introduced, Mr. James S. Stewart of Corvallis, who styles himself as a preacher of the gospel of good roads, good schools and good citizenship. He was very humorous in his remarks, and strongly upheld the road and educational programs.

The meeting closed with an overture by Messrs. Drill, Ahlberg, Chester Morgan and Mrs. McCall. A straw vote was taken for president possibly at large: Hoover 33, Wood and Johnson each 17, Lowden 4, Pershing 1, Taft 1, Harding 1, Bryan 7, McAdoo 4, Edwards 1, Wilson 1.

Interesting Letters

The following letters were received from Clarence Bullard son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bullard, and his cousin Francis Kane:

"S. S. West Chatala,
Calcutta, India,
March 15, 1920.

Dear Folks at home:

We have been here several days and will be here from ten to two weeks yet. Our cargo of salt from Spain will soon be unloaded and we expect to take a load of coal from here to Colombo, Ceylon. We stopped at Alexandria, Egypt, one day, and laid in Port Said three weeks, waiting for fuel oil, and stopped at Colombo one day. We expect to unload the next cargo in Colombo, and don't know what we will do then. We may go back to the States from there, or we may stay a while and be sent home as passengers. I don't mind the heat here but like the cooler climate a great deal better. Every thing is high in cost at Calcutta now. From one half to three fourths of the goods come from the states. The automobiles are as thick as in Portland and are nearly all American machines. There are five American ships in here with cargoes from other ports. I went to the Zoological gardens this morning, and a museum and Indian temple this afternoon. It is one of the largest zoos in the world. They certainly have some pretty birds and comical monkeys. Several poisonous snakes are shown such as the python, boa constrictor and cobra. The museum has everything imaginable in it. There are old stone carvings, skeletons of different animals and fish. The skull and tusks of one elephant is about thirty feet long. Two huge turtles stand five feet high, six or seven feet long and five or six feet across. The average turtle is only from ten to sixteen inches high. There are many different kinds of cloth and thousands of designs in hand work.

Clarence Bullard.

Francis Kane writes: "They passed by all kinds of Greek,

English and other ships, and nothing happened. When they saw the West Chatala and the American flag, out came their band on deck and they started playing "The Star-Spangled Banner." We dipped our flags and they kept on playing patriotic American airs until they dropped anchor at the other end of the harbor."

The Johnson Meeting

The meeting in the Family Theater last Saturday afternoon in the interests of Hiram Johnson, was fairly well attended. George C. Brownell of Oregon City and Sanfield McDonald who is candidate for republican delegate at large were the spell binders. Both made good speeches for their choice for president.

Jenny Wren and Old Hen Meeting

On the fourth Thursday of the fourth month of the one thousand nine hundred and twentieth year, at the house of J. J. Davis when the owner was away, a few of the neighborhood's foremost members of the local hennery, driven by a couple of lonely cockerels, and accompanied by a couple of gaily attired females of the younger set, met to finish the construction of a piece of calico and wool, which had expressed a desire to become useful in the form of a quilt. A yellow legged hen gave up her carcass to appear in the form of onions and noodles. The repast was enjoyed tremendously by all, and their appreciation was expressed in loud and stentorian cackles. The meeting went gaily until the home partner crowded, when all the brood forsook the lonely cockerels and hurried home to their lords and masters.

The Leopard Has Not Changed Its Spots

Clackamas county court is up to its old tricks again in discrimination against this end of the county, in the distribution of road money. Market Roads Nos. 1 and 2 in the campaign for bonds were to be taken care of first. There are available for these two roads, at the present time seventy-six thousand dollars. The court has arbitrarily decided to use $20,000 of this money on the road between Sandy and Firwood. This road has at no time been mentioned as a market road, and is not entitled to any of the funds available for Market roads No. 1 and 2. The dilatory action of the court in not definitely locating Market Road No. 2 has created a great deal of antagonistic feeling in this section, and the intention to use a portion of the funds of this district has added only fuel to the fire. The County court clique may think the project to create Cascade County a dead issue, but a supposed corpse has before now proved to be a case of suspended animation.

One thing is clear however, Eastern Clackamas must organize to protect its own interests otherwise it will be left in the lurch everytime.
