

Concerning Candidates

Below we give a few running notes concerning some of the candidates whose advertisements appear in this issue:

Chris Schuebel advertises his candidacy for state senator in this issue, and gives cogent reasons for his being nominated. The Oregon Voter who is not friendly to him, however admits his ability, as being so "soable in his expositions and so effective in his methods that much of his legislation is adopted by every session of which he is a member. This includes some of the best modern legislation on the statute books, especially the workmen's compensation law and its amendments, chiefly the product of his work."

Philip Hammond, republican candidate for representative is the only service man of the eight who are running for this nomination. As he has long been a resident of the county and popular, he stands a good chance of being one of the three to be chosen.

Harvey E Cross, candidate for County Judge, is well known to our people. He was representative in the last legislature when he "made one of the biggest hits of the session by his celebrated apology for his colleague, Chris Schuebel," writes the Oregon Voter, which adds that he is "universally respected by colleagues as a man of character and ability."

L. L. Porter, of West Lynn, is another old resident and former state senator, who is contesting for the county judgeship. He probably has as good a prospect as any for getting it.

O. A. Pace, republican candidate for coroner, is well and favorably known. He is a school director of Oregon City, and in his profession as funeral director, of the firm Holman & Pace, he is most kind and considerate. His business reputation will win him many votes from those who belong to other parties than that of the republican.

Thos. F. Ryan, Deputy State Treasurer for eight years, knows what the State needs in the way of laws to protect the finances of the State. He knows all the ropes at the State House and above all, Mr. Ryan has always been an honest, upright and conscientious public official with the interests of the men and women of the State at heart.

With a slogan of "One Hundred per cent Americanism and the prosperity of every woman, child and man in the State of Oregon," W. R. McDonald, prom-has announced his candidacy for joint representative in the state legislature from Clackamas and Multnomah counties.

His platform is as follows:

"I favor such legislation as will protect our country, preserve law and order, and will enable men and women to enjoy the prosperity that is bound to come from the healthy development of Oregon."

"For outspoken League of Nations man like Taft, Hoover or Hughes."

That is the slogan of Edward A. MacLean of Clackamas County, who seeks election in the primaries on May 21 as a delegate at large to the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

There are fifteen candidates for delegate at large to the Republican convention — four to be elected—and of these fifteen candidates only three announce where they stand on the League of Nations issue.

Daniel Boyd of Wallowa County, says:

"No League entangling us in European affairs."

Judge Charles H. Carey, of Multnomah County, says:

"Favor prompt peace treaty, restricting League covenants."

Mr. MacLean's slogan, printed above, marks him as the conspicuous advocate of the League of Nations among all the candidates for delegate at large.
