

Miss Grace A. Pierec, a teacher of St. Helen's Hall, Portland, who has been visiting Mrs. C. A. Jacques of Upper Garfield, for some weeks, returned to the metropolis Saturday to resume her school duties.

Two young Englishmen arrived this week to visit with Tom Watson. One is C. Smith his nephew and the other a friend, J. D. Smith. Their home is at Keighley, Yorkshire, which they left last June. They first went to Canada before coming on to the U. S. They both saw service in the late war, the former serving one year and the other four years and a half. They much enjoy the quantity and variety of fruit in this vicinity, as their home district is not a fruit growing section.

J. C. Duus is building a garage at the back of his house at the corner of 5th and Main streets, into which he and his wife will shortly move.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Woodle, who sold their farm recently at Eagle Creek, and bought the former Peterson residence, which has just been vacated by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stephens, have moved into it.

Nettie Finch the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Finch, was returning home Sunday evening, when she passed some boys who began throwing stones at her. Being frightened she ran hastily home and fell wrenching her self so she was quite lame the next day. Boys should understand that throwing stones is a dangerous and reprehensible practice. If any damage is done thereby, they can be held responsible and severely punished.

From the State Normal

My dear Mr. Gibbs:

I have read your article entitled "The Standard Gauge in Education" and I take this first opportunity to congratulate you upon your views in educational matters as indicated in the editorial. If every man who sits in an editorial chair could see as clearly along educational lines as you do and would put that sight into strong editorials as you are doing, the cause of civilization would be materially advanced. On behalf of the school children of the state, I again wish to congratulate you.

Very truly yours,
J. H. Ackerman, President.
