F. J. Harkenreder believes in drinking aqua pura, and not taking any risks of imbibing microbes, so he has dug a well at the corner of his house for drinking water. It is 27 feet deep and has three feet of fine salt water in it. With the gravel which he took from it, he has made neat walks around the house.

One of the pleasantest informal social affairs of this summer, took place at Mrs. J. W. Moore's home last Thursday, when a number of her friends came in to spend the evening. It was strictly confined to "the females of the species," as Mr. Moore was working on the night shift at River Mill. The ladies visited and played cards to pass the time, and light refreshments were served at the close. Those present were Mesdames J. W. Moore, Tom Morton, B. W. Moore, U. H. Gibbs, J. E. Shibley, A. E. Sparks, Mae Reed, R. C. Deming, N. Ecker, E. W. Bartlett, W. F. Cary, Ted Ahlberg and Misses Mary Oakley and Florence Kendall.

Vacation Closes

Tuesday morning, the school bell will again ring out, and the various squads of children will troop back and forth from their homes to the school house. The majority will not regret the fact, although it will be a little irksome at first, to get into the routine. It is not like going away from home to a boarding school, where the pupil is under school discipline and supervision all the time. There is no hardship about attending school a few hours in the day, and the rest at home, with Saturdays a whole holiday.

We are glad to report that Superintendent Burns has recovered sufficiently, so he will be able to take the helm at the opening of school, although he will have to be careful and go slowly until he gets back his strength. In the high school faculty there are three new members, and one in the grammar school. The former consists of F. E. Burns, superintendent and principal, Miss Gertrude Dillon, L. V. Cleworth, Miss Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Einarson. The grammar school faculty comprises Mrs. Edith Coleman, principal. Mrs. Lucia Pimm, Miss Leila Howe, Mrs. Carrie Sarver, Mrs. Jaquette B. Yocum.

Oregon Cranberries

The cranberry is the only fruit grown in the United States whose course of travel is from east to west. Realizing that this state is a fruit-producing state, men of broad vision in the district at the mouth of the Columbia river, entered the cranberry game and have developed it to such an extent, that at the present time it is supplying a great many of the cranberries used on the Pacific Coast, but there are still berries shipped in from the East.

Land that was considered waste, has been made productive. The total investment in land and improvements in the district amounting to a million dollars.

The cranberry industry on the Pacific Coast, while new, already occupies a firm place among the horticultural industries of the Northwest. Berries of very fine quality are grown in Oregon and Washington, in the district at the mouth of the Columbia river. Here is a great frost-free zone, with abundant rainfall, having a climate admirably adapted to the growing of cranberries.

Picking will commence the second week in September, and will extend over a period of four to six weeks.

To the rule that the Oregon fruit is the best grown anywhere, the cranberry is no exception. The cranberry grown on the east shores of the United States is indeed a wonderful fruit, but the cranberry grown on the Pacific Coast is of equally good quality and requires less sugar when put up.

Fall Seed Tested Free

Now is the time to send in samples of legumes and grasses that are to be used for fall seeding on clearings and burns. Soon the fall rains will begin, and the seeding of grasses and any legumes that go in, in the fall, should be made just as early as possible. In order to be sure of good seed and that its germination is satisfactory, samples should be sent to the seed testing laboratory at O. A. C., Corvallis, Oregon. Tests will be made promptly and free of charge and will give accurate information as to value of the seed for planting purposes.

University Notes

That practically every University of Oregon student is engaged in some kind of work this summer to help pay expenses for the next college year, is revealed by a survey of their occupations. The kind of work being done varies from salmon fishing in Alaska to flying with the aerial forest patrol in Oregon.

It is estimated that 70 per cent of the students at the University of Oregon earn their own way either wholly or partly. Many find employment during the school year, as well as in vacation time, and in this way are able to pay their entire expenses. A free employment bureau is maintained by the campus Y. M. C. A., for the purpose of finding work for the students. The Y. W. C. A., also co-operates with the women students in finding positions.

A tuition fee of $90 will hereafter be charged students from states outside of Oregon, in addition to the fees now charged all students, following a joint action of committees of the boards of regents of the two state institutions.

The tuition charge of the Oregon institutions becomes effective for all the registrants from states other than Oregon, beginning September next. The $60 will be payable in $20 installments at the beginning of each term. Men in the service of the United States during the late war, coming to the University or the Agricultural College from other states, will be exempted from half the regular non-resident fee.

The fees will not only tend to prevent any undue influx of students from other states, but will also help provide funds for building and other necessary purposes. Because of the large increase in student enrollment at the college and university, there is already a shortage of room.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Medical reports show men are more subject to appendicitis although many sudden cases occur among women. It can be guarded against by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing all foul, decaying matter which might cause infection. It brings out matter you never thought was in your system and which may have been poisoning you for months. Adler-i-ka is EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach. Estacada Pharmacy.
