

THE DEPARTED CAVE MAN.

A cave man of yore grabbed a girl by the hair and dragged her away to his lone rocky lair. While her friends and relations would rave. Now the girl makes a speech most audaciously queer. The man sits and listens and says, "Yes, my dear." The cave man's gone back in his cave. A cave man of yore with authority bold made her wear enough clothes so she wouldn't take cold. And he told her just how to behave. But now when a girl jizzes by in the street The man gives one look and then beats a retreat. The cave man's gone back to his cave.

UPPER EAGLE CREEK

Mrs. Ed. Douglass was a Portland visitor on Tuesday.

Mrs. Katie Douglass was an Estacada visitor Monday.

Walter Douglass has been sitting on the grand jury the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Naylor have purchased a Chevrolet car of J. C. Duus.

Mr. Pesznecker came over this way Monday with his hay-baler. He is to bale hay for Walter Douglass.

Ray Woodie is getting along quite swiftly with his new house and no doubt he will be living in it before many more days pass away.

Mrs. Fred Hoffmeister had the misfortune to fall and break her arm the other day. Mr. Hoffmeister took her to Estacada and Dr. Morse set her arm. We hope she will get along nicely.

Mr. Affolter set out a fire on his place several days ago, and on Saturday the east wind sprang up and started it to burning quite lively. In the evening it got over on to Roy Douglass' place and Saturday night he had to get some men to come and help fight it. They succeeded in getting it under control so that it did no damage to speak of. Mr. Affolter and family had gone to Tillamook and a phone message was sent him Saturday evening and he started immediately for home, arriving at 4:30 Sunday morning. Ray Wilcox, the fire warden, visited the fire Sunday afternoon.
