I.O.O.F. CONVENTION A GRAND SUCCESS

The Clackamas County District Convention of the I. O. O. F. order, has now passed into history. Although Saturday was treated to several heavy showers, this did not put a damper either on the proceedings or the enthusiasm manifested. The whole town was en fete. Big streamers across the south and north ends of the paved section of Broadway, proclaimed a welcome to the Odd Fellows and their sisters, the Rebekahs. The stores also displayed welcome signs in their windows. The incoming morning trains brought delegates, but the main lot came on a special from Oregon City, containing the delegates from that place, Molalla, Clackamas, Canby, Milwaukie, Gresham and Boring. Then a number of others came in their own cars. In all nearly 400 attended.

The sessions were held in the pavilion of the park which was suitably decorated for the occasion. The morning session was mainly occupied with the regular routine. H. L. McKenney, N. G. of Estacada lodge made the address of welcome, which was responded to by O. P. Miller, P. G. P. of Oregon City. Election of officers then followed. A. H. Knight, of Canby, being elected president, C. F. M. Brown, of Estacada, vice-president, G. A. Dougherty, of Molalla, secretary and A. C. Brombach, of Sandy, was elected treasurer. Gresham was chosen for the next place of meeting.

Adjournment for lunch at Hotel Estacada was next in order. At 1:30 the contest exemplifying the first degree took place, between the teams from Oregon City and Molalla. The judges of this event were George Hislop, of Estacada, Tom W. Riches, of Silverton, and C. A. Hill, of Gresham. The cup was awarded to Mollalla, but the result was not announced until the evening session.

In the morning and afternoon the Rebekahs held sessions in the lodge room, at which they voted to have a Clackamas County District Convention to be held at Gresham on the same date as that of the Odd Fellows. The officers elected were: Mrs. May Walden, of Oregon City, president; Mrs. Cordelia Carter, of Estacada, vice-president; Mrs. R. H. Holcomb, of Clackamas, secretary; and Mrs. Bradford, of Milwaukie, treasurer. During the afternoon they enjoyed a social hour, at which light refreshments were served.

The evening session of the I. O. O. F. was carried out according to the program, with the addition of speeches by Rev. E. A. Smith of Lents, Grand Master Biggs, of Prineville, and Chris Schuebel, of Oregon City, the president of the convention. Musical numbers and readings interspersed the proceedings.

But the grand finale, was a lodge wedding, the contracting parties being R. S. Ludlow, P. G. of the local lodge, and Miss Inger Dorothy Granum, of Portland, who is a member of the Rebekah Degree.

The stage of the pavilion had been very prettily decorated with a profusion of flowers. The bride was dressed in white satin trimmed with beads and wore a long white veil with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of handsome flowers. The groom, as is usually the case, was garbed in conventional black. The officiating minister was the Rev. J. T. Thorp, of Portland, a Lutheran minister, and the service was that of the Lutheran ritual. At the appointed time, preceded by eight flower girls, two bridesmaids, the Misses Dorothy Anderson and Frances Granum, her cousins, the maid of honor, Miss Martha Granum, her sister, the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The groom was attended by Sylvester Lawrence, of Springwater, as best man. The ceremony was very pretty, and at the conclusion the newly married pair received the heartiest congratulations of all present. Admiring I. O. O. F. brothers presented the bride and groom with a handsome silver service, and like minded Rebekahs gave them table linen.

As the hour was late, the delegates, including the bride and groom left immediately on the special train for Portland and other points on the way.

The local lodge can feel proud of the way the convention was carried out, and the visitors were loud in their praises of the treatment accorded to them, both by the members of the lodges and the citizens. Resolutions of thanks to that effect were passed. A Gresham delegate declared that while the Gresham Odd Fellows would endeavor to surpass Estacada's record, they would do well if they equalled it.

Obituary

(Printed by request.)

Susan Mary Smith was born in Shelbina, Missouri, Dec. 26, 1848 and died Oct. 4, 1921, near Estacada, Oregon. She was married to James Smith on Feb. 28, 1867, to which union were born twelve children, two dying in infancy. Five of the children were at her bedside during her sickness and death. One arrived two hours after she passed away. In early childhood she united with the church, living a faithful christian until God called her home. Just a few days before leaving she said she was ready to go, for there were hands beckoning to her to come. Although she said she would like to live, for she loved her home, she also said, "Thy will be done."

Besides her husband, she leaves ten children: Jerome of Robinette, Oregon, Edgar of New York, Roy of Arlington, Washington, Army at home, Mrs. Dollie Faddis of Centralia, Mo., Mrs. Annie Miller of Rockville, Iowa, Mrs. Lucy Winn of Harden, Mont., Mrs. Nora Way, Mrs. Maud Morrison, Mrs. Leona Phillips all of Estacada, Ore. and Mrs. Sarah Carothers of Oreana, Idaho; and three brothers, Chas. Carothers of Gresham, Ore., Jim Carothers of Oreana, Idaho, and S. E. Wooster of Estacada, Ore. In addition to the above, sixteen grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends mourn her loss. Rev. Spiess preached the funeral sermon in Oregon City where she was laid to rest.

Sad are our hearts, and O how lonely
Since our loving mother died;
But we know she has gone to heaven
There forever to abide.
Yes, we miss you, loving mother,
And our home is lonely now,
But in heaven, there we'll meet you,
With bright laurels on your brow.

MARRIED—Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1921, at Vancouver, Wash., Mrs. Mattie L. Patterson to Wm. E. Linn of Estacada.

The newly wedded pair returned to Estacada shortly after, and at present are staying at the home of Julius Kreiger, but plan to go soon to housekeeping. The bride was formerly from Nebraska and Sacramento, California. The NEWS extends to them its warmest felicitations on this happy event.

May Take Air Route

Airplanes will be used to transport delegates to the national convention of the American Legion October 31 to November 2 at Kansas City if the threatened nationwide railroad strike materializes. This was indicated in an announcement made by the aviation committee of the legion. There are now 1400 passenger airplanes in operation throughout the U. S., at least 1000 of which can be used for transporting guests, officials and delegates to the convention if the railroad service fails.—Gresham Outlook
