OREGON NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Principal Events of the Week Briefly Sketched for Information of Our Readers.

One case of infantile paralysis is reported at Athena.

Sherwood expects to have a municipal water supply in the near future. Curry county proposes to have a fair next season, probably in September.

For the first time in 1921 the city and county jail at Klamath Falls is empty.

Only 300 bales of 1921 hops are left in the hands of the growers of Lane county.

Linn county's assessed valuation now is nearly $1,000,000 less than it was when the 1921 tax was computed.

The sixth annual Oregon Agricultural college horticultural show will be held at Corvallis November 4 and 5.

Armistice day, November 11, has been declared a legal holiday in Oregon by proclamation of Governor Olcott.

Assessments for the present year give Josephine county a valuation of $5,271,215, an increase of $38,061 over last year.

For the first 15 days of October parcel post packages received and delivered at the Corvallis postoffice numbered 9662.

Work has commenced at Newberg on a new edifice to replace the Nazarene church, which was destroyed by fire a month ago.

The first shipment of Rogue River valley fruit to reach London has been sold at excellent prices, according to information received.

Taxes received by the secretary of state from distributors of gasoline and distillate in Oregon for September aggregated $110,409.91.

About 35,000 tons of Oregon hay will be sold outside the state this year, according to L. A. Hunt of the Oregon co-operative hay growers.

Forty road districts in Marion county will vote on the question of special levies for future highway work at the election to be held November 5.

The recent heavy rains resulted in a bad break in the paved highway just south of Roseburg. The foundation became softened and slid away.

Representatives of the 16 granges in Clackamas county will attend the convention of the national grange to be held in Portland November 9 to 13.

Klamath county farmers have received approximately $350,000 in federal farm loans in the last three years, and applications for $40,000 more are on file.

After being dormant for some time, the Albany Chamber of Commerce has reorganized with J. M. Hawkins as president and Mrs. J. I. Beard secretary.

One hundred and twenty men have taken advantage of the government plan of vocational education at Oregon Agricultural college, since it was started in 1920.

With the lowering of the price of wheat, hog raising is returning to favor with Umatilla county wheat growers, according to Fred Bennion, county agent.

A meeting of Filipino students was held at the University of Oregon to organize a club. This is the first time that such an organization has been promoted on the Oregon campus.

The Dalles district of the Methodist church, comprising 11 counties in Oregon and Washington have been transferred from the Columbia river conference to the Oregon conference.

Brigadier-General Charles H. Martin has been assigned to command the 3d corps area training center at Camp Meade, Maryland. He was formerly commander of the Oregon national guard.

At a public sale conducted at Marion, William Ladd of Portland and Pickard brothers of the former city disposed of 31 head of purebred cattle for which they received an aggregate of $9545.

Courts, juries and newspapers in Oregon are all giving strong support to enforcement of prohibition. Joseph A. Liville, prohibition director for Oregon, has reported to the office of the national prohibition commissioner.

A total of 16,305 ex-service men entitled to benefits under the so-called bonus law have filed applications with the world war veterans' state aid commission. Of the aggregate applications 5614 seek cash bonuses and 4691 loans.

We do Job Printing.

While dressing a goose for last Sunday's dinner, Mrs. Joe Moore, proprietor of a Klamath Falls transfer office, found three gold nuggets in the fowl's crop. The goose had been penned in the Moore yard for several weeks.

Hundreds of thousands of acres of lodge pole pine in central Oregon, valueless for timber, may soon be utilized for commercial paper, if present plans by eastern capitalists, who are investigating the supply at La Pine, are carried out.

Vocational education in the high schools of Oregon is gaining favor rapidly, according to E. E. Elliott, director of the state board of vocational education, who returned to Salem after an extended trip through the eastern part of the state.

A deal was closed at Salem whereby the local lodge, Woodmen of the World, purchased the Elks' temple. The consideration was $30,000. The Elks recently purchased a site some distance from their present temple, on which they will erect a new home.

Official averages of the American Trapshooting association, issued from its offices in New York, place O. N. Ford, manager of the Portland Gun club, as high average man over all trapshooters in Oregon. Shooting at 2240 registered targets, Ford turned in a percentage of 96.02.

Oregon leads the Pacific coast states in the percentage of children between the ages of 5 and 13 attending school, according to the census bureau. The 1920 census figures credit Oregon with 217,103 children between the ages of 5 and 20, while 152,275, or 70.1 per cent of the number, are in school.

James H. Wilson, 62, retired farmer residing at Salem, and Miss Ruth Wortham, colored missionary of San Bernardino, Cal., were killed, and Mrs. Wilson, wife of one of the victims, suffered a crushed chest and other serious injuries in an automobile accident on the Pacific highway, five miles south of Salem.

Newberg made the best showing in fire prevention work of any municipality in Oregon during last year, according to official announcement of A. S. Barber, state fire marshal. As a result Newberg will receive a large flag to be purchased by the state and presented by Governor Olcott at a public function to be arranged in the near future.

F. M. Brown, chief deputy game warden; Stanley Jewett, predatory animal inspector in charge of government work in the Oregon district, and T. J. Craig have gone to southeastern Oregon to investigate reports of the slaughter of antelope herds by sheepmen along the Oregon-Nevada border. The three men will co-operate with Nevada game officials in the investigation.

The Stranger Within Thy Gates

In the Mosaic dispensation society was under peculiar obligation to the "Stranger Within Thy Gates." Our obligation is one imposed by the laws of thoughtfulness and brotherliness.

It is easy to become narrow and self centered, and to forget that anyone has an unpaid claim against us. Sociability has a real value. There is nothing which can be substituted for it. A little formal palaver or pretense of attention fools no one. The real article has its origin in a bigness of heart, and cannot be counterfeited.

These thoughts were suggested to us when a man, who invested in Molalla property recently, intending to increase his investment, got homesick and wanted to get his money out of it, not because of any thought of it being unwise or unsafe, but because himself and family had not received friendly recognition and encouragement. This same complaint has come to us from many sources. People have lived for months without receiving a neighborly call or pleasant welcome to the community.

If the Ladies' Civic Improvement Club want to boost the town in a substantial way, which will not cost a cent and will return to them many dollars worth of pleasure, they will keep tabs on the stranger coming into town and see that no one is unwelcome.—Molalla Pioneer.

The above equally applies to Estacada. [ED. NEWS.]

Additional Brevities

Mrs. Thos. H. Morton was a business visitor in Portland Tuesday.

Julius Kreiger is building a wood shed and garage at his residence.

The Estacada Cannery Co. has bought the building it now occupies of W. F. Cary.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Lester Townsend, and Mrs. George Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kieth, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. A. E. Sparks drove to Sandy, to attend a meeting of the Eastern Star chapter, at that place. All report an enjoyable time, and a very interesting meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hislop received word Sunday, that their daughter, Mrs. Inez Greenleaf, who lives in Portland, was sick with appendicitis. Their son-in-law Mr. O. E. Syren, drove them and Mrs. Syren to Portland, where the two ladies remained, the gentlemen returning that night to Estacada. Mrs. Greenleaf has been taken to a hospital and will be operated on to-day.

Hymeneal

A wedding of interest was that of Miss Dorris Lovell, daughter of C. R. Lovell, of Currinsville, and Mr. Arthur Smith of Eagle Creek, at Oregon City, Saturday, October 29, 1921. The ceremony was performed by Judge Campbell.

Both bride and groom are well known and popular young people, having lived in this vicinity most of their lives. Mrs. Smith is a graduate of the Estacada high school and is a very prominent and valued member of the Rebekah order of this place. She is a young lady of much charm and grace and her many friends will wish her unlimited happiness. The groom is considered a young man of sterling worth and is to be congratulated on his good judgement in choosing a helpmate.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home for the present with the latter's father on the old home place at Currinsville.

County Nurse

Last Thursday, Miss Cecil Schrezer, associate director of the State Bureau of Nursing, visited Estacada. She was accompanied by Miss Hilda Morris of Oregon City, the newly appointed county nurse. These ladies came here, to interest our people in the Public Health Association, and to secure a local representative for it. Miss Morris is a graduate nurse of a Chicago institution, and was a visiting nurse and infant welfare worker for some months in that city. Later she held the position of county nurse in S. Dakota. She will be in the Estacada schools for physical inspection of children, and will be glad to give personal consultations with their parents. Her salary is paid out of the proceeds of the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals.

Eye Injured

Raymond Lovelace is home from the U. of Oregon, with a shield over his left eye. It was badly injured in Saturday's football game at Seattle, by one of the players running his fingers into it. The damage is serious as it may involve the loss of the eye. Football is becoming too strenuous, and soon it will be necessary for the players to adopt suits of armor for protection. While a dash of danger adds spice to a game, yet no game is worth the risk of permanent disability, especially to the young.

The Late Unpleasantness

No new cases of smallpox having developed since Saturday and none showing any symptoms, while those who are down with it are rapidly improving, and a number of previous victims having been let out, the epidemic may be considered about over. Last Saturday, Dr. Stryker of Portland, secretary of the State Board, was here to look into the situation, and he ordered as a precautionary measure, that all public gatherings should be discontinued. The lodges closed down and the churches, and school took a recess for a week, but this was partly from the fact that the teachers anyhow would be absent attending institute for the latter half of the week. The library was also closed but will be open again next Monday, as will also the schools.

It will be as well for a time to avoid crowds, and at mail times it would be better to stay outside the office, if there are many waiting. The merchants all report light business in consequence and Estacada's streets have presented an old fashioned sabbath appearance. While there never was any danger for those who traded, yet it was natural that people should stay away. However, they need not be scared any longer.

Wedding Bells

A marriage of interest is that of Mrs. Hattie Heninger and the Rev. A. F. Lacey which was solemnized Thursday morning, Oct. 27, at 10 o'clock at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Dr. W. W. Youngson officiating. The service was witnessed by a company of friends and relatives of the bridal couple. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. S. E. Prosser, and Mr. MacDonald was best man.

The bride was attired in a smart costume of midnight blue tricotine and wore a corsage of roses. She is a member of a pioneer family of Oregon and Washington, and has a wide circle of friends in Portland.

The Rev. Mr. Lacey is pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Estacada, where he will take his bride to live.—Portland Journal.

Football

The Estacada High School football team went over to Gresham, Tuesday, to play the Union High at that place. It was a rough game, as three of our boys, Jess Denny, "Fat" Norris and Marion Tucker, were badly injured and had to withdraw from the game, and substitutes take their places. The result was 28 to 7 in favor of Gresham. Our boys stoically accept the defeat, but they will try the Gresham team again here, when they hope to more than even up Tuesday's game.

Grange Meeting

Garfield Grange, No. 317, will hold its regular monthly meeting on Saturday, November 5, at 2 p. m. Prof. Powers of the O. A. C. will give a talk, and Mr. Holt, the County Agent, will also be present. Anyone interested, is cordially invited by the Grange to attend.

M. E. Church

If the ban on church services is removed in time, the pastor will hold service at 11 o'clock, and preach on "The Limitation of World Armaments," on Sunday.

FROM ESTACADA TO SAN DIEGO

STATION A., SAN DIEGO, CAL. October 26, 1921.

Dear Mr. Gibbs:

I am at last settled at San Diego, and am able to give you my permanent address.

I had a very pleasant trip all the way through, as the weather was ideal except from Bakersfield to Los Angeles, where I found snow in the mountains. This bit of road is called the "Ridge Route" and it reaches an altitude well over fourteen thousand feet at the highest point. Where the road passes over the divide, or summit as I should say, it is higher than Mt. Hood, which looms so plainly in Oregon. This mountain is called Mt. Shasta, and snow lies on it the year around.

I had no car trouble except one puncture, and my total expense was less than $50 for the trip. You can readily see that traveling by auto is much cheaper than by train, and let me say my Chevrolet car is a hum dinger. She never once failed, and when I felt like traveling fast I could go 35 and 40 miles per hour without heating the engine in any way. I would say on such a trip, it is much nicer than a bigger car, as it is easier to operate on the short curves of which there are many, and consumption of gas is just about half as of a big car.

The road is paved almost all the way, and any Oregonian who misses this wonderful trip down the Pacific Highway, misses something which no description by words could give a listener its real beauty. I will describe just how it seemed where the Sacramento river winds its way around through canyons on its way to the ocean. The work of nature has left castles of rocks standing out prominently. Each seems it might stand forever as a marking place where once giants had it for a play ground.

My advice to Oregonians is buy a Chevrolet auto, and drive over the Pacific Highway and see California in the winter months when Oregon is flooded with rain. Living is much cheaper here, and one with small means could come by auto and camp, for just about half what the fare on the train would be. I am a booster for California, as it is such a grand place to live in. Of course, work can't be as plentiful as in Oregon. If people who come must work, they might be disappointed, as one must get acquainted before landing a job.

I am to begin work next Tuesday, of becoming a "finger print expert," so by the time I return again for Oregon's beautiful summer, then I will have tales to tell of finger prints which I have seen in San Diego. As I know you are a busy man, I won't bother you with further remarks about California. But as you intend I know, to visit it some day you will want to know something of the best climate on earth.

Yours in haste,

OTIS C. WAGNER.

Walnut Crop

Owing to the large tonnage of walnuts in this year's crop, the Oregon Growers Go-operative Association has just installed a large, modern grader in its Salem plant.

With an estimated 600,000 pounds of walnuts for this season, it is expected that half of the Oregon crop will be standardized in four grades, by running the nuts through this machine.
