School Board Releases Miss Margaret Reid For Near East Relief.

At the request of Gov. Ben. W. Olcott, honorary chairman Near East Relief, the Portland School Board has given three months leave of absence to Miss Margaret Reid, teacher of history in Jefferson High School, that she might help organize the schools and colleges of Oregon for the Near East Relief. Miss Reid has recently returned from the Near East where for two years she was in charge of an orphanage of three hundred seventy-five children in Homs, and later helped care for 6,000 refugees in Marash.

"For the first time in my experience as a teacher I find my heart is not in teaching," says Miss Reid. "My 'thinks', to use an Armenian expression, are for the kiddies I left in Turkey, so I am glad the chance to give to Oregon the message given me by the people of Marash as I was leaving there last April.

"You are going back to your home in America. Please carry our love and gratitude to the American people, and tell them to please 'think for us,' they said. This is an Armenian idiom for, 'help us.'

"This is the message I bring to the people of Oregon. You mothers with sweet, wee babies in your arms, 'think for the mothers of Armenia; They came to me on cold and stormy winter days, only last winter; I saw them open their arms to show me a little naked babe lying there and then beg me for a piece of cloth, even a piece of burlap, anything to wrap around the tender little body. Last year I was able to give them a bit of flannel and some little cotton clothes, and I was able to do this simply because the people of America had sent cloth and clothes and money.

"You fathers and mothers of lovely roses, laughing boys and girls, will you continue to 'think for' the pitiful little waifs, driven from home, lost from dearly loved fathers and mothers and brothers and sisters? I wish you all might have the joy I have had, to pick up a thin, starved, sickly, dirty little mite of humanity, hair matted, with awful sores, and with your own hands to wash him and clean him and to feed him and heal him, and in a few weeks to see him changed into a wholesome, happy, normal kiddie.

"The hard part comes when the orphanage is full and the budget exhausted and you have to turn away the starved and desolate boys and girls from the gates. In my own orphanage we never refused admittance to a very little one. We couldn't. We jammed them in some place. But again and again we had to turn away a big boy and sometimes the larger girl, because 'there was no room.'

"America has been generous, Oregon has been generous, but we must continue to think and think hard, for these kiddies if they are to be kept warm and safe and protected and happy through this desperate time ahead."

Miss Bertha Burns was home for the New Year holidays.

We give double trading stamps with all cash purchases on Wednesdays at Rose's.

ALICE IN HUNGERLAND

How An Armenian Orphan Became a Movie Star.

A three reel motion picture film entitled, "Alice in Hungerland," is now being shown through the State as a part of the Near East Relief campaign. The heroine of the play, "Alice," was found by J. J. Handsaker, State Director of the Near East Relief, and other Relief workers, in a Jewish orphanage in Constantinople.

"We all fell in love with Alice," says Mr. Handsaker, "and we took her with us all through Armenia, that she might 'star' in our movies. The picture shows her frolicking with the hundreds and thousands of happy children in our orphanages, and it shows her distress as she saw the great multitudes for whom we have been unable to make room. The real Alice is now in America bringing a message to the children of all nationalities, Armenian, Syrian, Greek, Jew, Chaldean, Assyrian and others for the life given them by America.

"Those desiring a showing of the pictures should address Near East Relief, 613 Stock Exchange, Portland, Oregon."

OREGONIANS MAKE RECORD

J. J. Handsaker Finds Oregon Workers In Many Armenian Towns.

"Oregonians are making a record in the Near East of which the State will be proud, once the story is known," says J. J. Handsaker, State Director. "During my summer in Armenia I did not visit a town where there was not an Oregonian's doings. At Derindje I found a hut made of packing boxes which I had shipped. At Trebizond, Nellie Cole of Forest Grove, was striving to stem the flood of refugees caused by the Greek and Turkish war. Margaret (Dollie) Hinman of Forest Grove, was in Constantinople, having been expelled from the interior. At Alexandropol we left Mrs. Ethel Long Newman, O. A. C. '20, in charge of the office where there are 7,000 orphan boys. At Erivan I met Nvart Gurdjian, for whom Frances Gage of Portland laid down her life three years ago. Mrs. Amy Burt of Bend told me of how she had rescued 1,000 children at one time.

"I hope to visit every part of the State to tell the story of these heroic Oregonians."

Near East Armenian Workers Stick. "American workers are sticking to their posts in the Near East against the greatest of odds," said J. J. Handsaker on his return from a summer in relief work in Armenia. "They declare they will not leave until every child in Armenia is cared for. Last year for a time we were obliged to put our orphanages on half and quarter rations, and thousands of our children died. When I was in Armenia last summer the children were in rags, some had practically nothing on, others wore grain sacks or flour sacks. Then it was warm, but as Mount Ararat towers above the country, I realized that before long those rags will be of no use, and they must have warm clothing."
