OREGON NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Principal Events of the Week Briefly Sketched for Information of Our Readers.

Boiler inspectors of Oregon will hold a conference in Portland Saturday, January 28.

A total of 7291 lineal feet of cement sidewalk was laid in Cottage Grove during 1921.

Fire losses in Oregon, exclusive of Portland, during the month of December, aggregated $138,000.

Receipts of the Albany postoffice for the last month were 11 per cent greater than during December, 1920.

Fines collected in the nine justice courts in Clackamas county during 1921 nearly trebled those for 1920.

Announcement was made by the war finance corporation of a loan of $135,000 for agricultural and livestock purposes in Oregon.

Records at the Gaston postoffice show an increase of 25 per cent in the Christmas mail handled in 1921 over that of 1920.

Four hacksaws were found hidden in the Lane county jail recently by Sheriff Stickels and his deputies, who were overhauling the place.

Sheriff W. J. Wilson of Clackamas county was cleared of the indictment of larceny by baillee, returned against him by the grand jury on December 22.

Interest displayed by ex-service men at a meeting of the American Legion assured the organization of a company of infantry of national guards at Hood River.

Because heavily loaded trucks are cutting up certain county roads badly, the Lane county court has issued an order limiting the weight of loads they carry.

Organization of Linn county's first drainage district will be completed soon. This project is to drain a section of land a short distance east of Albany.

A move is on foot to establish the biggest brickyard in the state, one mile west of Jacksonville, which will provide employment for a large number of men.

Portland's postal receipts were $10,200 larger in December, 1921, than in December of the preceding year. Portland was the 29th city in December postal receipts.

George C. Munger, 76, pioneer resident of Oregon, is dead at The Dalles after a short illness from pneumonia. Munger was chief of The Dalles fire department in 1891.

During the year 1921 the city recorder of Pendleton issued building permits of a total valuation of $406,000.

In 1920 the value of new buildings erected was $318,000.

More than 1000 members of the Christian Endeavor society are expected to attend the state convention of the organization, which will be held in Salem, February 16 to 19.

Heart disease, developing from a moderate cold of two weeks' duration, caused the sudden and unexpected death at Portland of Miss Frances Holman, 79, pioneer resident of Oregon.

A complete investigation of charges and counter-charges concerning the management of the Oregon institution for the blind will be made by a committee of prominent Portland people appointed by Governor Olcott.

Senator Stanfield has introduced a bill appropriating $30,000 for improving the entrance to Oregon caves in Josephine county and providing proper lighting facilities to make this scenic spot more inviting to tourists.

On January 16 the Union county court will open bids for $400,000 road bonds. The bonds represent the maximum amount of road bonds issuable annually by the county court under the road bond election held last year.

Teachers in the Salem schools, under a decision announced by the board of directors, will be allowed eight-day absences on pay when the absence is caused by illness, or attendance at funerals in event of death of an immediate relative.

The special election set for January 31 by the Klamath county court to vote on a road bond issue of $800,000 has been called off because Clark, Kendall & Co., Portland bond house, discovered a legal error in the petition which rendered it invalid.

A total of $53,355.51 has been expended for land, buildings, equipment, operation and administrative costs by the Oregon land settlement commission since its creation through an act of the 1919 legislature, according to a report filed with Governor Olcott.

Representative Hawley and J. H. Nalper of Reedsport, counsel for the port of Umpqua, appeared before the house rivers and harbors committee in Washington, D. C., and asked the committee to approve the project for the north jetty at the mouth of the Umpqua river as recommended by the board of army engineers. The engineers' estimate of the cost was $267,000.

Charges of bribery, directed at E. F. B. Ridgeway, state prohibition agent, whitewashing of the officer by the grand jury and charges of conduct unbecoming an official, on the part of W. I. Keator, district attorney of Umatilla county, will be subjects of a special grand jury investigation to be launched at Pendleton with A. J. Liljeqvist, assistant attorney-general, acting in the capacity of legal adviser to the inquisitorial body.

Notice

On account of the fire last Sunday, which damaged my stock of goods in the I. O. O. F. building, I am moving into the building formerly used as a pool hall by R. G. Marchbank. I wish to get a new start, and to do this, all bills which have been running over 30 days must be paid. I have been a friend to you, cannot you be a friend to me?
J. K. ELY.

Christian Church

Preaching both morning and evening next Sunday. Sunday School at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Jennie Krieger, superintendent.

Joint Installation

Last Saturday evening the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges held a joint installation. The following were installed by the I. O. O. F.: N. G., C. F. Brown; P. N. G., Harry McKenney; V. G., Wm. Gilgan; secretary, Fred Bartholomew; treasurer, Ben F. Bullard; warder, Fred Marshall; conductor, Milton Weatherby; chaplain, Wilbur Wade. After the installation the P. N. G., Harry McKenney, was presented with a handsome P. N. G. collar.

The Rebekahs installed, N. G. Elva Ahlberg; P. N. G., Val E. Cary; V. G., Myrtle McWillis; secretary, Mary Eschelmann; treasurer, Cordelia Carter; warder, Nellie Hayman; conductor, Rose Wilcox; chaplain, Birdie Gilgan.

After the ceremonies were all concluded the remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner, a banquet supper being served and dancing and games indulged in.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Standish and family and Mrs. M. H. Evans motored out from Portland last Sunday, to visit at the Phil Standish home at Garfield. Mrs. Evans remained to continue her visit a few days longer, and is at present the guest of Mrs. A. E. Sparks.

Sunday's Fire

A few minutes after 5 o'clock, Sunday evening, smoke was discovered issuing from the roof of the wing of the I. O. O. F. hall. The alarm was promptly given and responded to. The origin of the fire is uncertain, but it started in the kitchen of the apartments of William Bass, who had only left them a quarter of an hour previously. The firespread up inside the walls and on to the roof. J. K. Ely's stock of dry goods was taken out and stored in the city hall. It was badly damaged with smoke and water. Wm. Bass lost all his effects except a graphanola and a suit of clothes. The building was damaged it is estimated to the extent of $2,500, and the lodge regalia of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs were total losses. Dr. Steiner's adjoining residence was damaged by water. The insurance has not yet been adjusted but there is $3,500 on the building, $500 on furniture and regalia. J. K. Ely carried $4,300. William Bass had no insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morton moved last Saturday from the Bartlett residence to their own home which Mr. Morton recently purchased of W. J. Moore.

PLANS BEING DRAWN FOR BIG POWER UNIT

While a road is being built above Cazadero by the Portland Railway, Light and Power company to a point on the Clackamas river in the region of Mount Hood and Mount Jefferson, where it is proposed to install the first unit of the 80,000 horsepower hydro-electric development the detailed plans of the engineers are being completed and the method of financing is being arranged. When the improvement is completed it will be possible for the utility with its present electric generating plant at Cazadero and steam generation to develop 200,000 horsepower for the electrical users of Portland and vicinity. This is expected to care for the power needs for many years to come.

In order to show the location of this new project and give an idea of what it is to consist there has been prepared a sketch of that part of the Clackamas river watershed in which the plant is to be constructed.

The power to be obtained from the water applied in this initial development will be approximately 30,000 horsepower. The head under which the plant will operate is to be about 860 feet. This means that each cubic foot of water passing through the conduit will, when applied to the generating unit, produce about 70 horsepower.

At first the unregulated waters of the Oak Grove branch will be used. Later the storage dam at Timothy Meadows will be built and used to regulate the flow of the water as it comes to Intake. This regulation of water flow will serve to increase the summer time output of the plant, at the same time in no wise diminishing the winter output, thus insuring a constant output the year around.

The next part of the development will consist in the building of a three-mile tunnel under the mountain, which lies between the Oak Grove branch and the upper branch of the Clackamas, and installing a low division dam at Big Bottoms. This will divert the water of the upper fork through the tunnel to Intake where it will join with the water of the Oak Grove.

When this is accomplished an additional 30,000 horsepower unit will be installed at the Three Links power house.

As a final step in the development a storage dam will be installed at Big Bottom and the regulated flow of the upper fork will be applied to the ultimate installation of 80,000 horsepower.

Parent-Teacher Meeting

The meeting of the Estacada P. T. A., held Wednesday, Jan. 11, in the high school auditorium, was well attended. A delightful program was given consisting of songs by the primary pupils, an address, "The Function of the P. T. A. in the Average Community," by Mrs. Bertha Staater Hill, president of the State P. T. A., was filled with worth while suggestions and the appeal to parents to take more of an active interest in the welfare of the child was especially emphasized.

"Grade School Problems" were discussed briefly by Mrs. E. Coleman and Miss L. Howe.

Mrs. Einerson discussed "The Purpose of Home Economics in Education."

The Boys' Glee Club sang two interesting numbers and the pantomime, "The Lamp Went Out", by a group of high school students was well received and proved to be very entertaining.

A short business meeting was held and the non-acceptance of the vice president, Mrs. A. G. Ames, was accepted and Mrs. Ames was elected to fill the vacancy. Following this the resignation of the president, Mrs. Lloyd Yocum was presented and accepted. Upon recommendation of Mrs. Hill it was decided to wait until the February meeting before taking action.

Light refreshments were served following the program and all enjoyed a social hour.

Community Club

The Community Club will hold the usual meeting on Friday evening of next week at the Estacada Hotel. A good program is being arranged and a speaker to be announced next week will be present and matters of interest to the entire community will be discussed.

Garfield Brevities
