

Children's Home

Much interest is being shown throughout the state, in the children's farm home, to be established near Corvallis by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to care for orphaned and dependent boys and girls from all parts of the state.

Mrs. Amy Upton is the chairman for Estacada in the campaign to raise sufficient funds to make this home possible. Announcement has just been made from headquarters that the maintenance for the first year is assured, but funds are now needed for payments on the farm and for the construction of buildings. It is hoped that children may be placed on the farm by summer.

Just arrived—another lot of those fine Cotton Felt Mattresses at attractive prices at Rose's.

W. C. Thompson Tree Powder

Mr. Thompson tells me he has frequent inquiries for his tree powder in this district. I therefore take the occasion to inform the farming public that I am the agent for it in Clackamas county.

This is a remarkable product, guaranteed not only to give a superior fruit but a stronger and healthier tree. It is applied to the tree by boring a hole and inserting in the sap and is consequently more of a preventative than a cure as it gets at the root of the evil.

Mr. Thompson and daughter are both kept very busy in Portland doing up orders and handling the business end of it as they have several agents throughout the state who are quite successful.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXI.—ILLINOIS

KASKASKIA, the oldest town in Illinois, is on the site of an Indian village and it was here that Father Marquette, after his first discovery of the Illinois river, established a Jesuit mission in 1675. Four years later La Salle, the French explorer, passed through the Great Lakes, landed at the Chicago river and pushed on to the Illinois river, which he named after the Indian tribes living in that region. Here he built a fort and sent his boat back to Montreal for further supplies. When his vessel did not return he started home on foot and succeeded in finding his way to Montreal through a thousand miles of tangled wilderness. He gathered together another expedition and returned to the fort, which he had left in charge of his companion Tony. The fort he found in ruins, but finally succeeded in locating and rescuing Tony, who had been driven out by the Iroquois Indians.

This riverway to the Mississippi became one of the leading avenues of communication between the French in the North and Louisiana. French settlers soon located here and established the most friendly relations with the Indians. In fact, though the Illinois country was ceded by France to England in 1763, the sentiment of the Indians and French together was so hostile that it was several years before the territory could be occupied.

During the Revolution it was George Rogers Clark and his expedition into the territory north of the Ohio which captured Kaskaskia and drove the English from this province. Various states claimed rights to parts of this territory, but these were finally ceded to the federal government and in 1787 it was formed into the Northwest Territory. This tract extended from Pennsylvania to the Mississippi and was eventually divided into Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

In 1818 Illinois was admitted as the twenty-first state with an area of 56,005 square miles. The state is one of the most level in the country and is often called the Prairie State. Politically Illinois is the most important state in the Union next to New York and Pennsylvania as it has twenty-nine electoral votes for president.
