WEDDING BELLS

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Evanson, at Redland, at 12:30 p. m., Sunday, January 21, 1923, when their youngest daughter, Myrtle, was married to Eldon Lankins, the youngest son of E. L. Lankins of Viola. Mrs. Neita Powers, sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor, and the groom was attended by the bride's brother, Ernest Evanson. Rev. Young of Garfield officiated, the ring ceremony being used, after which a bountiful wedding dinner was served to the guests.

The rooms were very prettily decorated with ferns, Oregon grape and carnations. The bride wore a beautiful dress of blue charmeuse, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Both the bride and groom are natives of Clackamas county, the bride having been born near Oregon city and is a graduate of the Oregon City high school. The groom was born in Oregon City and received his education in the schools of that city.

After a short honeymoon the couple will be at their home in Viola, where they will receive their friends.

Why not a Family Gathering?

Racial and religious intolerance is not dead in America. On the contrary, there seems at the present time to be a recrudescence of the kind of hostility which does not have an immediate and ascertainable personal background. As a matter of fact, the type of hostility which has direct personal background is a minimum in any community. It is the exception when people hate those whom they know thoroughly.

Much of the present racial and religious hostility seems to be due to the fact that there is a general feeling among the diverse elements of our society that religions and races are entering into American politics to secure benefits for themselves rather than for America as a whole.

How well founded are these suspicions we will not attempt to say. We believe, however, that such suspicions will never be set at rest as long as Protestants continue to talk them over with Protestants, Catholics with Catholics, and Jews with Jews. Is it not possible that a National conference, representative of Americans first, and racial and religious elements second, might not contribute something valuable towards the elimination of this smoldering hostility?—N. Y. Outlook.

Tax Levy Safe

The Clackamas county tax levy for the coming year is safe, notwithstanding technicalities over the period of filing, is the opinion expressed by officials here. The county court order making the levy was filed later than the period which the law allows, but in the opinion of lawyers to whom the court has submitted the problem, the levy will stand unless it is attacked by suit to invalidate it.—Oregon City Enterprise.

Would $471.23 Profit From 155 Pullets Be of Interest to You? If so read the Following Letter.

ESTACADA, OREGON, JAN. 18, 1923.

MR. PHIL MARQUAM,
Estacada, Oregon,

DEAR SIR:

I have been so well pleased with my flock of 155 pullets which I raised from the baby chicks I got from you April 19, 1921, and I thought you would be interested in the figures showing my profit. To raise these chickens from the incubator to 16 months of age cost me, including initial cost, $455.35.

At frying size I sold the cockerels for.....	$ 45.50
Eggs laid during first laying year.....	$795.53
Total amount received.....	$841.03
Total cost.....	$455.35
Net profit for 16 months.....	$385.68

Amount taken in by sale of eggs from September 1, 1921, to October 1, 1922.....	$795.53
Cost of feed for same length of time.....	$324.30
Net profit for laying year.....	$471.23

Figuring that I still have my hens which are laying fine, and have since November 20, 1922, I feel that I have done pretty well. The vigorous, healthy pullets which I raised from your flock will do their part in producing the eggs if given proper attention. I still want the 500 chicks in the spring that I spoke to you about. Would like to have more but haven't the room to accommodate them at the present time.

I remain, respectfully,
(Signed) MRS. R. H. CARTER.

It will be noted that Mrs. R. H. Carter made a NET PROFIT above feed cost of $471.23 from 155 pullets bought of us as baby chicks. You may not do as well as Mrs. Carter has done, but you can increase your income considerably by obtaining breeding stock, chicks or hatching eggs from us. We have been trapnesting and breeding up this flock since the fall of 1916. That our efforts along this line have not been wasted is strongly attested not only by the excellent results obtained by Mrs. Carter, but also by a majority of our customers.

We would be pleased to book your order for baby chicks, hatching eggs or breeding stock. Call in and let us know just what you want, or if you cannot come in person, write.

PHIL. MARQUAM, Estacada, Oregon.

Child Welfare Where It Belongs

No one can read the report of the Child Welfare Commission and not come to the conclusion that at last the state is on the right track in caring for dependent and delinquent children. In place of herding them in children's institutions, and bringing them up without the benefit and care of a real home in a real family, this system seeks to place each child under good home environment.

It is just the opposite of the institution plan, which destroys individuality, self-respect and initiative and makes the inmate a perpetual dependent citizen, with a brand of charity on his or her soul.

On an appropriation of $10,000 a year this commission has saved the state at least five times that sum, has removed hundreds of children from institutions and placed them in carefully inspected homes.

This commission has been instrumental in making parents assume greater responsibility. This has resulted in a large increase in the amount of money contributed by parents toward the support of their children in institutions and has also resulted in the return to the parents of a number of children not really in need of institutional care.—The Manufacturer.

America's Double System

Under free institutions it seems we develop a double system of doing many things that are very important.

We have public schools and colleges and we have privately maintained schools and colleges that do just as good work.

We have state and national banks and we have private banks and the latter enjoy as much confidence as the public ones.

We have farm loans by state and nation and we have private farm loans and large farm loan banking corporations all doing good work.

We have state and private casualty insurance departments and the latter in many cases have cheapened state accident insurance.

It is only when we try to establish state monopolies in these matters and relieve the state from the competition of private initiative that we make a socialistic mess of matters.

The theory that the state of government can do anything better than private initiative in free and open competition has fallen down in so many cases that people are losing faith in political administration.—The Manufacturer.

The federal income tax law requires that every person who had a gross income of $5,000 or more, for 1922, must file a return regardless of whether or not that sum yielded him a cent of profit. To illustrate: A received from his business and other sources, $5,000 during the year 1922, but his deductible expenses for the year aggregated $4,500. His net income being less than $1,000, A would not have to pay an income tax. However, he is required under the law to file an income tax return if his gross income was $5,000 or more, regardless of whether or not he realized any profit. These returns must be filed in the office of Clyde G. Huntley, collector of internal revenue, not later than March 15, 1923.
