Trap-Nested WHITE LEGHORNS

Bred for Vigor and High Egg Production.

Our primary aim is to produce vigorous, husky chicks; healthy, rugged breeding stock; and first class hatching eggs. Hence, in many cases, our customers roll up bigger egg records than we do. But we hold our mature stock back as long as possible after the moult and bring them into laying as near the hatching season as possible. Thus are our customers assured of strong, rugged chicks and high quality hatching eggs.

Caterpillar Pest

In Lincoln county they are having trouble with caterpillars, which are so thick that they have delayed the trains. Sunday the Yaquina train was an hour and 15 minutes making the grade near Summit that ordinarily is a 12 minute run. The tracks were buried in caterpillars and caterpillar gore trickled down the mountain side where they were ground under the wheels of the engine. The experts at the O. A. C. are devising means to cope with the plague. They say that nature generally cares for the caterpillar influx through the fly parasite which lays its eggs in the head of the caterpillar. This time the worms were so numerous that the flies have been unable to keep up with their job. Cresote is being tried to kill them and if this fails poison gas will be used. Birds also eat quantities of caterpillars and help keep the latter down, so it is highly advisable to protect the birds and not kill them, even though they help themselves freely to fruit.

Special Notice to Farmers

If you have cows or horses that have warts, Old Scotch Liniment will remove them by the time you have used one bottle of it on them. The dealer will return your money if it does not do the work. It is also invaluable for fresh cows with caked bags, swellings, bruises, sprains and so forth. For sale at Morgan's Feed Store. Read the following testimonial:

We had one cow that had her bag simply covered with warts. Old Scotch Liniment took them all off sleek and clean in a few days.

In Defense of His Church

The Catholic Truth Society of Oregon, aroused by the criticisms and aspersions cast on its church of late, and the misrepresentations made concerning it, is conducting a campaign in refutation. It has engaged a noted lecturer, Rev. Fr. Alvah W. Doran, of Philadelphia, to give a number of addresses throughout the state, and that given last night in the park pavilion was one of the series. These lectures are given in the spirit of good will and for enlightenment, trusting that the truth will prevail, and appealing to the good sense and fairness of their hearers.

The subject last night was, "The Truth about Catholicism." The reverend lecturer opened by stating that "No fair minded man or woman will condemn any one charged with wrong doing until both sides have been heard." He requested the privilege to state the Catholic side of the controversy, quoting Lincoln's well known plea to his country for malice toward none.

The principle points he covered were, the patriotism of Catholics as shown by their services in the world war; the slanders which have been hurled against the moral characters of the priests and nuns; the celibacy of the clergy, and the confessional. Each of these, he dealt with in detail, making a vigorous defense of the high character of the nuns and priests, and describing the extreme precautions used to insure that only women and men of the right type be thus set apart.

Nuns are obliged to undergo a novitiate before they allowed to take the permanent vows, and ample opportunity is given each one to withdraw, if after sufficient trial, she feels herself not called for this holy vocation. As to priests, their preparation before ordination, lasts from 10 to 12 years, under constant watch of their superiors who advise those not fitted for the celibate life to return to the world.

Celibacy of the clergy was defended on the ground that it was established for "the glory of the Kingdom of Heaven, authorized by Holy Writ, and an evidence of the spirit of sacrifice that animates the Catholic clergy." Co-fession was treated clearly as a means of grace and he explained the safe guards in canon law of the church against its abuse.

A patriotic tone was given the occasion by the singing of America. The speaker was introduced by Mayor George E. Lawrence.

The lecture was well calculated to serve its purpose for the promotion of good will and harmony among different classes of citizens. The writer holds no brief for the Roman Catholic Church, but he would urge his fellow Protestants to remember that there is no stronger upholder, than that church, of those fundamental articles of the Christian faith, the Deity and Humanity of Jesus Christ, that He is both Very God and Very Man; and the absolute efficacy and sufficiency of His Atonement for the sins of the whole world.

ESTACADA ADDS ONE MORE SCALP

Estacada 3—West Lynn 0.

That tells the story of a fast and snappy ball game on the Estacada grounds Sunday. Zaniker for West Lynn, and Jack Smith for Estacada both, pitched winning ball, but Smith had slightly the best of it, allowing but 5 hits to Zaniker's 7. Boland of Estacada really brought in the bacon, as not being satisfied with tanging out a three bagger to deep right and scoring Scherner, he took a mean advantage of a nice little nap catcher Berry of the visitors was having and stole home. Estacada's first run, in the third, was a present, but the two in the sixth were earned. Neither pitcher walked a man. Zaniker struck out 9, Smith 7.

The features of the game were the fast fielding of shortstop Simons of the locals, who handled his seven changes cleanly and without a wobble; a very pretty catch by Ray Lovelace, who came from deep center and speared Zaniker's fly behind second base. Someday this boy Ray Lovelace is going to try coming from center and get a foul fly behind the plate. When he does we will bet on him to win.

Final score, Runs Hits Errors
Estacada, 3 7 2
West Lynn, 0 5 3

About Insulin

The greatest discovery in recent years in the treatment of disease is that of insulin, a product of the pancreas, used in the treatment of diabetes, says Dr. Franklin D. Stricker, of the Oregon State Board of Health. We do not wish to dampen the enthusiasm of those who might have occasion to use the product, nor to discourage those who might receive benefit from its use, but on account of the various statements regarding it there seems to be a probability of its being regarded in the wrong light. To arouse false hopes in the diabetic would be cruel.

Insulin is not a cure for diabetes. It is only a palliative, relieving the symptoms of the disease and bringing about a wonderful improvement in the condition of the patient. It does not remove the cause of the disease. The use of insulin is successful only when all other measures of proven value to the treatment of diabetes are utilized.
